Opposition Emerges To BART Extension

A drive to oppose the proposed construction of Bay Area Rapid Transit District's $12 million "tail track" has started in the eastern part of Daly City.

BART officials recently announced plans for constructing the one-mile stretch of turn-around track along the Southern Pacific right-of-way adjacent to Junipero Serra Boulevard.

Conrad Pavellas, director of the Original Daly City Protective Association, said the association has voted to begin a protest campaign against the construction.

He said the members decided at a recent ODCPA meeting to start collecting signatures against the project.

Leroy Simmons of 466 Niantic Ave. said the residents of that street are concerned about BART's assertion that several homes on Niantic would have to be removed to make way for construction.

Simmons said he has collected 50 signatures against the proposed project from Niantic Avenue residents.

BART may condemn property to proceed with construction both within and outside its three-county district.

Pacifica Police Chief Accepts Livermore Job

Pacifica Police Chief Mel Nelson resigned Friday to accept the job of Livermore police chief, beginning June 19.

Nelson, 42, reportedly spent several days considering the job offer. He has nearly 18 years of experience with the Pacifica Police Department, including eight years as chief.

He will receive a slight pay boost, from the $32,004 annual salary he now receives in Pacifica to $33,200 in Livermore.

Nelson was selected for the job over two other finalists: San Jose Police Capt. Gordon Ballard and Coalinga Police Chief Kay Holloway.

Pacifica City Manager Donald Weidner said Nelson apologized for the short notice he gave, noting that Livermore was anxious for him to begin his new job.

Livermore has been without a police chief for 3½ months. The previous chief, Ronald Lindgren, left under a cloud of controversy. He was charged with sexually molesting young boys.

Weidner said he hopes to announce his criteria for choosing a new chief within 30 days. Meanwhile, he will be conferring with the City Council. Ultimately, the responsibility for selecting a new chief is mine," he commented.

He has not yet determined whether he will recruit candidates from outside the Pacifica Police Department.

Capt. Tony Guardino, who has been with the department 12 years, will fill in as acting chief after Nelson departs.

Weidner said that Nelson will leave a "gaping hole" in the community. "He was raised here and he's one of the best-known figures in city government," he remarked.

In choosing Nelson's successor, Weidner noted "It is important, I think, for me and the council and the department to remember that it is impossible to duplicate Mel. While Mel has tremendous skills and outstanding talents, our goal should be to find another competent person and not waste time trying to duplicate him."

He added, "We wish him all luck. We feel he is making a progressive move."

Weidner previously had explained that Livermore is larger than Pacifica, with 50,000 citizens compared to 37,000. He said, "It is an attractive community. It has a reputation of being financially stable, well-organized, well-planned and they've got a lot of high-powered academic research going on over there."

Nelson, who is out of town, could not be reached for comment.

'Perhaps We Can Help'

Several Daly City councilmen laughed Monday as Broadmoor Police Commissioner Wayne Johnson suggested that Broadmoor might be able to help Daly City out of its Jarvis-Gann difficulties.

Johnson got up at a City Council study session Monday to remark that since Broadmoor would be "unaffected" by the expected passage of the Jarvis-Gann tax limitation initiative Tuesday, the police district perhaps could give a hand to Daly City.

As several councilmen chuckled, Johnson said, "I'm serious about this."

Wayne Johnson

At that point, Mayor William J. Schumacher thanked Johnson and the police commissioner left.

Johnson had prefaced his comments by thanking the city for contracting with Broadmoor before the police district reorganized its independent department March 1.

Asked how the police district, which is supported solely by property taxes, could be "unaffected" by the passage of Jarvis-Gann, Johnson said he has obtained some private legal advice that suggests that Broadmoor might be in "a different category" than other taxing entities.

Broadmoor police headquarters

Though another police commissioner Randy Wall, recently said that information from San Mateo County officials indicated that information from San Mateo County officials indicated that Broadmoor might lose all but $70,000 to $80,000 of its yearly tax revenues, Johnson said he does not believe this will be the case.

He said that Jarvis-Gann might not apply to Broadmoor, since residents of the 7,000-person unincorporated Colma police district voted in 1976 to double their tax rate, to $1.50 per $100 of assessed valuation.

The tax hike succeeded by a 3-1 margin. Johnson said he believes the vote might be considered as a bond issue.

The commissioner, however, conceded that the matter might lead to a "hassle in the courts" if Jarvis-Gann passed.

existing rate schedules or a service-type rate schedule with no minimum charge.

The service-type rate schedule would charge per 100 cubic feet, with the charge to escalate after the first 300 cubic feet used.

With current rates, the study forecasts that the city will lose $304,300 during fiscal year 1978-79. Losses are projected at $382,200 and $456,200 in the following two years.

The study, which noted that the city water system has been self-supporting in the past, cited increased costs of San Francisco water, higher utility rates and improvements to the system as reasons for higher rates.

condemning land could not cause any greater problems than the hospital already is experiencing in the neighborhood.

Residents, particularly those who live on Alta Loma Drive and San Fernando Way, have complained for nine months that employees and visitors at the hospital have crowded their streets with vehicles.

The problem began last August, when the hospital, with an expansion program, constructed pay parking lots for employees and visitors. At 25 cents per day, the lots were bypassed for free spots along the streets, residents charged.

The hospital lowered its fee for employees to 15 cents daily and instituted a key card system, which the hospital claimed improved lot usage.

Marshall said Monday that the pay lots are filled to capacity. "We can't develop parking as fast as it is needed," he said.

He said the hospital is attempting to solve the overflow problem by developing 275 temporary spaces on St. Andrews Church property, the adjacent medical building parking lot, and on hospital land adjacent to San Fernando Way.

He said the plan is to surface the areas at a cost of $50,000 and use them for two years, until the additional land west of the hospital is obtained.

However, several residents who listened to the hospital's report said they would continue a drive for preferential parking in the neighborhood.

Preferential parking, already being instituted in eastern Daly City, would provide for fines to be levied on people who take up neighborhood parking spaces.

Dee West, a resident spearheading the preferential parking drive, told the council that residents fear the nuisance will worsen when the expansion program is completed.

"The new wing should not be opened until parking is provided for the new employees," she said. "The problem has been created by the hospital. It should be solved by the hospital."

Mrs. West and two other neighborhood residents said they intend to submit the required preferential parking petition signatures (one-third of the area's residents) to the council next Monday.

The council asked City Attorney Albert Polonsky to report June 12 on possible alternatives for the city in solving the parking problems.

18 Percent Hike In Water Rate?

A study of Daly City's water rates, which suggests an 18 percent rate increase, has been submitted to the City Council.

Action is expected next Monday to set the rate increase proposal for public hearing in July.

Daly City residents pay a minimum charge of $7 per 800 cubic feet, except for Serramonte area residents, who are charged $9 per 800 cubic feet because of recent additions to the system.

The report, compiled by former water superintendent Herbert MacDonald and several city staffers, suggests either an 18 percent increase on all existing rate schedules or a service-type rate schedule with no minimum charge.

The service-type rate schedule would charge per 100 cubic feet, with the charge to escalate after the first 300 cubic feet used.

With current rates, the study forecasts that the city will lose $304,300 during fiscal year 1978-79. Losses are projected at $382,200 and $456,200 in the following two years.

Preferential Parking Drive Hospital Parking: Daly City Seeks Alternatives

Pointed questions were fired at representatives of Mary's Help Hospital appearing before the Daly City City Council Monday to discuss neighborhood parking problems.

Council members expressed dissatisfaction at the hospital's assertion that parking problems would be solved within 1½ years.

"The problem keeps getting more aggravating for the residents in the hospital neighborhood," Mayor William J. Schumacher told a delegation of hospital officials.

R. J. Marshall, associate director of Mary's Help, said the hospital is negotiating to purchase some vacant land west of the hospital for increased parking that will be needed when a $42 million expansion program is completed.

"You're in negotiations now," Councilman Victor Kyriakis said. "What does that mean?"

Under further questioning from Kyriakis, Marshall said the landowners so far have resisted attempts by the hospital to buy the land.

Marshall added that the hospital could, but prefers not to, condemn any land in the neighborhood.

Schumacher noted that condemning land could not cause any greater problems than the hospital already is experiencing in the neighborhood.

Residents, particularly those who live on Alta Loma Drive and San Fernando Way, have complained for nine months that employees and visitors at the hospital have crowded their streets with vehicles.

The problem began last August, when the hospital, with an expansion program, constructed pay parking lots for employees and visitors. At 25 cents per day, the lots were bypassed for free spots

Alternate Health Plan for S.M. County

By JOHN HORGAN

Physicians and hospitals in San Mateo County are preparing to launch an alternative health care insurance program.

The plan, called Bay Pacific Health Plan, Inc., will be a form of pre-paid health care, along the lines of the Kaiser Foundation's system.

But there will be a significant difference. Consumers who use Bay Pacific can choose their own doctor and, often, their own hospital.

Bay Pacific will enable physicians and hospitals which participate to become more competitive with Kaiser in the county.

It is expected that Bay Pacific will become operational sometime in early 1979.

According to Dr. Patrick O'Meara of Redwood City, president of the Health Care Foundation of the San Mateo County Medical Society, 210 of the county's 700 physicians have already pledged $200 each to join in the new system.

Four hospitals — Mary's Help in Daly City, Peninsula in Burlingame, Mills Memorial in San Mateo and Sequoia in Redwood City — have agreed to pay $60,000 each to participate in Bay Pacific. Choje Community Hospital in San Mateo will not be involved.

The plan is a joint venture between the Health Care Foundation, the hospitals and the doctors. Physicians who become part of the program do so through the Individual Practice Association.

Gene Taylor, executive director of the medical society, says more doctors will soon sign up for the plan as its starting date gets closer.

Adds O'Meara, "We really haven't even begun to recruit doctors in the North County."

Bay Pacific will be part of a national movement toward the establishment of Health Maintenance Organizations, entities created by federal law in 1973.

Amendments to that law have stimulated the formation of HMOs in the last two years. Nationwide, Taylor estimates there are perhaps 55 HMOs now functioning. Only two of them, however, are in the Bay Area.

When Bay Pacific becomes operational, employers with 25 or more workers in the county must offer the new program as an alternative to other health insurance plans, according to law.

Bay Pacific, then, will become an option for employees, just as Blue Cross, Kaiser and other plans are now.

Edward O'Brien, chairman of a planning committee which has been studying the feasibility of Bay Pacific, says, "With Bay Pacific, a person can retain his own doctor and the economic incentives are still there to reduce costs."

Says O'Meara, "It will promote cost effectiveness and provide an alternative."

Taylor says physicians and hospitals which participate in the pre-paid system will find that there will be definite inducements to cut costs, such as the length of patient stays in the hospital and the utilization of tests and other procedures.

"The plan will promote quality care at the least possible cost," says O'Meara.

Not all health care practitioners favor this concept, however.

Taylor says there are physicians who will object to any outside interference in their relationships with patients.

"The government (through the HMO concept) is mandating certain things," he says. "That means the government will have an impact on how medicine is practiced."

Some doctors oppose any hint of such third-party control.

Bay Pacific's officials are seeking a federal loan of about $2.5 million for start-up costs. The $300,000 obtained from county hospitals and physicians was for preliminary feasibility studies and analysis.

Bay Pacific's spokesmen say they believe the plan can be successful. O'Meara calls it a "significant change" for the delivery of health care services in the county.

Officials at Sequoia Hospital are particularly eager to see Bay Pacific succeed because of the intense competition they experience from Kaiser in Redwood City.

Kaiser's influence — along with that of Stanford University's hospital in nearby Palo Alto — has severely affected Sequoia's occupancy totals over the last several years.

In 1977, for example, Sequoia had the worst utilization figure in this county. For the year, its available acute care beds were more than half-empty.

According to data released by the California Hospital Association, these are the average 1977 occupancy percentages for available acute care beds in the county's five non-Kaiser hospitals:

- Sequoia, 48.3
- Chope, 60.9
- Peninsula, 66.8
- Mills, 73.3
- Mary's Help 75.8

Richard Daniels, administrator at Sequoia, says Bay Pacific could help that facility. "It's going to allow people to have freedom of choice," he says. "It might not help us initially. But we are one of the most interested."

Daniels says the success of Bay Pacific may depend on which physicians choose to join up and where those doctors are located.

So far, says Taylor, about 90 of the 210 physicians who have signed up with the plan are from the South County. Many of them are primary care physicians, that is, general practitioners and family practitioners.

Charles Mason, administrator at Peninsula, says Kaiser has not made drastic inroads at his hospital. For that reason, among others, he does not believe that Bay Pacific will have a dramatic impact at Peninsula.

"It will be a good option for the community," he says. "But I don't think it will have a great, big chunk of the action."

John Gaston, an administrator at Mills, says Bay Pacific is essentially a "preventive" measure which will perhaps assist hospitals in their efforts to prevent further losses to Kaiser.

"It's a reactive measure to combat erosion," he says. For Mills, he says, Bay Pacific will have a minimal impact. "At best," he points out, "it will stabilize things at Mills."

On the matter of the cost of health care, Gaston says, "I don't believe it will significantly affect costs. But it will give people one more choice."

It will also be another way for the local hospitals to become more competitive. "And," says an administrator at Mary's Help, "competition is the name of the game."

In this county, the battle for the health care dollar has become ferocious as the county's population stabilizes. Signs of the increasing struggle for business go well beyond the formation of Bay Pacific.

Mary's Help and Peninsula are engaged in a legal dispute over the issue of cardiovascular surgery. Mary's Help is seeking an injunction against Peninsula to try to halt Peninsula's new open heart surgery program, a service undertaken with physicians from the University of California's Moffitt Hospital in San Francisco.

Some doctors, feeling the pinch in their own offices, are opposed to what they view as the over-use of hospitals' emergency rooms. These physicians believe that such use, often by patients who do not need the expensive services of the emergency facilities, could be handled cheaper by them.

Hospitals, faced with important and accelerating improvements in medical technology, find themselves in a race to upgrade their facilities and add new equipment. Even as most of their important statistical categories continue to sag (with the exception of Mary's Help, the newest of the county's hospitals), the hospitals are gearing up to spend about $100 million to modernize.

An example: The Mills $34.5 million improvement program, which is nearing completion, includes nine new surgery suites. Currently, the hospital has six. But the number of operations performed at Mills has been declining slightly. Why has Mills opted for an increase of 50 percent in the number of operating rooms in the new building?

"We don't know what the future holds," says Gaston. "There is a great deal of speculation on the needs of hospitals."

He says three of the operating rooms will be for out-patient procedures only. Presently, he explains, in-patients undergoing major surgery are lumped together with out-patients in the same surgical complex. He says that is not desirable.

Gaston adds that not all nine of the operating rooms will be opened immediately. He says having nine will give Mills "growth potential and the possibility for differentiation of services."

He says it has been found that many operations are more involved and last longer today, so, those negative statistics might be somewhat misleading. Says Gaston, "We think the number of surgeries has stabilized."

Peninsula and Mills have been trying to find a solution to the dramatic decline in the number of maternity patients both have experienced in this decade.

There has been considerable discussion about locating all of the private maternity care at one or the other. But that would entail a trade-off. The hospital losing its maternity program would have to be compensated by acquiring some service from the other.

"It's purely an economic issue," admits Gaston. "It will be a trade-off."

But no decisions are expected to be reached immediately, says Gaston. "We are still talking," he says.

In the end, if the hospitals can agree on some kind of compromise, it will all get down to a matter of money. And that's hardly a surprise.

Charges Fly in Demo Meet

Faced with the threat of legal action, three county Democratic leaders have issued a statement to "rectify" a charge that a coalition seeking election to the County Central Committee is spending $16,000 on the effort.

Committee members Monroe Sweetland, Audrey Ohlson and Jack W. Smith issued a joint statement last Friday in which they charged that the amount was being spent in connection with the mailing of a printed slate of candidates endorsed by the Democrats for a More Effective Central Committee to every Democrat in the county.

The trio charged that the coalition campaign was a "drive to take over the Democratic County Committee at Tuesday's election" by Rick Silver, administrative assistant to Assemblyman Louis Papan, and by Joe Holsinger, administrative assistant to Rep. Leo J. Ryan.

Silver and Holsinger contend that a more active Central Committee is needed in the county, hence the endorsement of a slate they feel will take an active role in party politics.

Following publication of the $16,000 figure in Saturday's edition of The Times, telegrams attributed to the Democrats for a More Effective County Central Committee were sent to Sweetland, Mrs. Ohlson and Smith with the "demand that you issue a statement to the press rectifying the obvious false and untrue statement regarding the funds spent by Democrats for a More Effective County Central Committee."

If a retraction was not made, the telegram said, "we will be forced to take legal action."

In their joint statement, the three committee members say:

"The $16,000 estimate mentioned in the article was based upon the promise made by Democrats for a More Effective County Central Committee to its 'slate' candidates of a mail to every registered Democrat in San Mateo County."

"With 162,000 voters at 8.4 cents bulk mailing rates, the cost would be $13,600 for postage alone, plus printing costs, permit fees, mailing labels, newspaper ads and billboards."

"Apparently this committee could not obtain the full amount needed to carry out their promise, despite their request for $300 from each countywide candidate and $50 from each committee candidate."

"If so, we are willing to rectify the statement in the article to an undetermined lower amount. Whatever is being spent by this group is still beyond the means of most Democratic candidates. Trying to buy control of the County Committee at any price is not in the best interest of the Democratic Party."

Silver said today that he is satisfied with the trio's statement and that "it is best the whole thing be dropped" as far as legal action is concerned.

Silver said that the $16,000 figure "is something they must have pulled out of the air."

The mailing of endorsed committee candidates, he said, was made only to households with two or more registered Democrats. The mailing cost, he said, was $2,600. Total cost of the coalition campaign, he said, is about $4,000, including the mailers and newspaper advertising. There are no billboards, Silver reported.

In its rectifying statement, Sweetland, Mrs. Ohlson and Smith accuse the coalition of "deceptive practices" in listing statewide incumbents on the slate without their permission. They claim that it is an attempt to mislead voters into thinking that the incumbents support the slate.

Silver said it is inaccurate to say that there is an attempt to deceive the public.

"Any group has the right to support any candidate for public office," he said.

The slate card makes it clear, he said, that the Democrats for an Effective County Central Committee is endorsing the candidates, that the candidates are not supporting the committee.

District Attorney Keith C. Sorenson is losing two of his longtime assistants.

Stanley B. Poling, chief of the special services section, is leaving July 1 to enter practice in Dallas, Tex. He has been with Sorenson for nine years.

J. Robert Corshon, chief of the municipal court section, is leaving today after 11 years to enter private practice in San Mateo.

Sorenson said that he will wait the Jarvis-Gann results before determining replacements.

The district attorney also said he doesn't see how he could achieve a 20 percent reduction in his staff of 54 criminal and civil lawyers, as proposed by County Manager David L. Nichols if Proposition 13 passes.

Identified

The man who drowned in the ocean off Pacifica late Saturday has been identified by the county coroner as Richard Chandler, 29, of San Lorenzo.

The drowning occurred at 11:43 p.m. Saturday just west of the intersection of Santa Maria Avenue and Beach Boulevard.

When Pacifica police arrived, an unknown citizen already had pulled Chandler from the surf and was attempting to revive him. A Medevac unit arrived soon, but a paramedic's attempt to revive him also failed.

Supervisors OK Museum

The San Mateo County Board of Supervisors agreed today to go ahead with the construction of a $1.1 million Coyote Point Park environmental museum.

The action came after the Coyote Point Museum Association assured the board that it would assume maintenance and operation of the facility at a cost of about $200,000 a year.

Supervisor James Fitzgerald cast the lone "no" vote. He argued that this was not the proper time to be considering such an expenditure, especially on the day the Jarvis-Gann Initiative is to be decided by the voters.

"Voting for this now, would be like looking at a possible 60 percent pay cut and then going out and buying something," said Fitzgerald.

The supervisor said he was concerned that if the association somehow could not raise the necessary $200,000 for maintenance and operation, the county would have to "pick up the tab."

County Manager David Nichols reminded the board that he is recommending the closure of all county parks should the Jarvis measure succeed today.

He said he supports the environmental museum, which will display animal and plant vegetation indigenous to San Mateo County, but has some concerns about operating the whole park program with the limited funds allowed under Jarvis.

Supervisor Fred Lyon pointed out that funds for construction of the museum would come from special accounts and state funds and would not affect the county's general property tax fund.

Some $750,000 would come from the county parks and open space account and $228,388 would be state money.

Lyon also reminded the board of the impressive "track record" of the association in raising funds for its activities, and expressed little concern that the group could generate yearly the necessary $200,000.

Lyon also indicated that he would not support closure of Coyote Point park if the initiative passes.

Duane Mattison, director of county parks and recreation, said construction of the museum could begin in August.

'Low-Rider' Equipment Theft Suspect Arrested

An alleged string of thefts of hydraulic tailgate pumps used to raise and lower tailgates of large trucks was reported broken by South San Francisco police late Wednesday with the arrest of a San Jose man.

Officer Chuck Davis reported stopping a vehicle on Lowrie Avenue in the industrial part of the city because it matched the description and license number on one seen some weeks ago in a tailgate theft.

Police said they have received 22 reports of such thefts since Jan. 1. The pumps reportedly are popular with youths of Latin descent for their "low-rider" autos, because the pumps can be used to raise and lower the cars when used four to a vehicle.

The pumps are valued at $250 to $500 each.

The local number for area residents is 002-0957, an answering service. Residents also may contact the main office in Burlingame at 342-0801, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

SAN BRUNO CONVALESCENT HOSPITAL — A volunteer is needed to play the piano for patients to accompany with rhythm instruments. Only one hour per week would be necessary.

CAMP FIRE DAY CAMP — Adult and youth volunteers are needed for the day camp at Junipero Serra Park from June 19-23. Table counselors, nature specialists and a camp nurse is especially needed. The camp operates from 9 to 3 with one overnight.

AMERICAN RED CROSS — Adult or youth volunteers with artistic abilities are needed to create posters and flyers to publicize their programs.

BAYSHORE CHILD CARE CENTER — Volunteers interested in children are needed to help care for infants, toddlers and pre-schoolers. This is a new center in Daly City which needs and welcomes volunteer assistance.

CAMP SIERRA FOR THE HANDICAPPED — Volunteers with an interest and ability in working with mentally and/or physically handicapped children and adults are needed to assist with a residential outdoor camp program. There are weekly sessions through August and many volunteers are needed. Transportation can be provided for interested volunteers.

For details about these and other volunteer opportunities for adults and a summer youth program contact the Volunteer Bureau. Interviews will be made in Daly City by appointment. A project of the Assistance League of San Mateo County, the Bureau shares in the United Way of the Bay Area and is funded, in part, by the County of San Mateo.

GIRL SCOUTING

SERVICE TEAM: The Daly City-Colma Girl Scout Association service team will meet June 13 at 7:30 p.m. at the home of its Association Chairman Mrs. Mary Ann Dale.

The "Plan of Work" for the 1978-1979 school year will be on the agenda as well as the Girl Scout calendar of events for adults and girls.

WIDER OPPORTUNITIES. Carol Ann Hall, Daly City, local high school student, has been selected to attend a Girl Scout Wider Opportunity, "Arkansas Wing Ding '78", sponsored by Oachita Council of North Little Rock, Arkansas.

Miss Hall will explore careers in the field of aeronautics and learn about Ozark Mountain life. The event is scheduled for July 21-31 and will include three days of home hospitality.

Wider Opportunities are available to all Senior and some Cadette Girl Scouts.

SSF Soldier In Exercise

Sgt. Richard J. Smith of South San Francisco, a member of the 504th Military Police Battalion, Presidio of San Francisco, recently participated in Brave Shield XVII, a joint readiness exercise at Fort Irwin, in the Mojave Desert.

Grave Shield XVII involved some 23,000 active, Reserve and National Guard forces representing all branches of the Armed Services.

Smith's mother, Mrs. Fay A. Smith, resides at 114 Camaritas Ave.

Sergeant in 'Brave Shield'

Sgt. Philip A. John of Chico, a member of the 32nd Infantry, Fort Ord, recently participated in Brave Shield XVII, A joint readiness exercise at Fort Irwin, in the Mojave Desert.

John's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. John, reside at 106 Ramona Ave., South San Francisco.

If you're settling for just 8% interest, you're not saving at Citizens.

Citizens Savings and many other savings associations now offer a new 8%, 8-year certificate account. For a minimum deposit of $1,000, you'll receive an effective annual yield of 8.33% when your deposit and interest are left in your account for the full term. That's quite a return indeed. Sure, Citizens pays 8%. But there's a lot more benefits to Citizens savers than just high interest.

Citizens offers you 8% and then some.

Our "then some" starts with a Balanced Savings Program that will bring you a high return on your savings portfolio, plus easier access to a portion of your funds, helping you avoid the substantial interest penalties for early withdrawals from certificate accounts. Citizens savings counselors will show you how your funds can be distributed among a variety of high interest accounts with terms from 1 to 8 years, plus a 5.25% passbook for daily availability. And, you'll be able to keep track of your family's accounts with Citizens quarterly Financial Overview Statement. It summarizes your savings activity at a glance... deposits and withdrawals, interest earnings, maturity dates, and more.

Valuable customer services and then some.

Citizens offers you a wide array of the usual customer services* like free money orders, travelers checks, and safe deposit box. But no other state-wide savings association offers you income tax preparation service or the Family Financial Forecaster that helps you budget more efficiently and control your family's finances. They're part of Citizens Family Financial System* that makes money, saves money, and manages money for you.

So don't settle for less. Get high interest and then some. See Citizens Savings today.

Service News

Soldier Gets Unit Ribbon

Staff Sgt. Jimmy E. Taylor is wearing a distinctive service ribbon as a member of an organization which recently received the U.S. Air Force Outstanding Unit Award. Sgt. Taylor is a security supervisor at Tempelhof Central Airport, Germany, with the 6912th Security Squadron that earned the award for meritorious service.

His wife, Michele, is the daughter of Jeanne M. Harlow, 350 Railroad Ave., South San Francisco.

Sgt. Kerwin With SAC

Sgt. Richard P. Kerwin has been graduated at Sheppard AFB, Tex., from the U.S. Air Force technical training course for computer operators.

Kerwin, now trained to operate and maintain electronic data processing machines, is being assigned to Bytheville AFB, Ark., for duty with a unit of the Strategic Air Command. His wife Norma is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cris N. Logia, 40 Peoria St., Daly City.

Sailor Back From Pacific

Navy Hull Maintenance Technician 2nd Class John E. Tanner, son of Jacob E. Tanner of N. 245 San Anselmo, South San Francisco, has returned from an extended deployment in the Western Pacific. He is assigned to the guided missile destroyer USS Goldsborough, homeported in Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. While deployed, this ship operated as a unit of the U.S. Seventh Fleet.

Marine Wins

A Promotion

Marine Lance Cpl. Matt Guillera, son of Mr. and Mrs. Al Guillera, 933 Humboldt Road, Brisbane, has been promoted to his present rank while serving at New River Marine Corps (Helicopter) Air Station, Jacksonville, N.C. He joined the marine Corps in March 1977.

NEW OFFICERS

have been armed. Sgt. Richard Sequine, not pictured, also got a commendation in that case for the use of his dog, Cesar, in locating the weapon, which had been thrown into some bushes along the path of the chase. Richard Martinez, a citizen, in lower left photo, was given a certificate of appreciation for assisting two officers May 23 as they struggled with two men they were trying to arrest. Martinez suffered a broken hand in the melee. Officer Gary S. McLane, in lower right photo, got a certificate of commendation for his arrest of two strong-arm robbery suspects in the Bayshore area May 22 within 30 minutes after it was reported, because of his fast action and persistent search of the area, which led him to the suspect vehicle.

Forcing Food Industry Into Some Changes

MARASCHINO cherries, lemon gelatin and hot dogs may cause cancer. So what else is new? Like me, you're probably tired of hearing that your favorite foods send rats into convulsions.

But somebody out there is forcing the food industry to change its ways. Consider these facts:

- Diet soft drinks now are labeled "Use of this product may be hazardous to your health. This product contains saccharin which has been determined to cause cancer in laboratory animals."

- The Federal Communications Commission has taken action to ban commercials for sugar-coated cereals during Saturday morning kiddie shows on TV.

- Most food packages now contain detailed information about ingredients and the amount of nutrients.

The Center for Science in the Public Interest takes credit for some of these changes. Based in Washington, D.C., this non-profit organization is dedicated to providing the public with reliable information about food.

IF CSPI had its way, the government would ban the use of butylated hydroxytoluene (BHT) preservative, which is found in such foods as cereal, chewing gum and potato chips, as well as red dye No. 40, the most widely used coloring, which CSPI says causes cancer in rats. Red dye No. 2 was outlawed in 1976.

Filtered through the media, these demands appear to be an outrageous campaign by a small group of fanatics who are trying to ban the public's favorite junk foods.

You get the impression that a handful of scientists have come to these conclusions after force-feeding potato chips and red lollipops to small rodents for a couple of months.

CSPI points out that allowances must be made for the smaller size and shorter life spans of the rats.

The organization has printed a "Chemical Cuisine" poster that unravels some of the mysteries about food additives.

YOU MAY be frightened into thinking that every multi-syllabic ingredient on a product package is dangerous. According to CSPI, that's not the case.

Their poster lists more safe additives than harmful ones. For example, something as ominous-sounding as "sodium caseinate" turns out to be "a nutritious protein containing adequate amounts of all the essential amino acids."

The poster brings a method to CSPI's madness about food additives. Rather than flagging certain foods as dangerous, it tells you which ingredients could cause problems.

THEIR WARNINGS about frankfurters make more sense when you compare the package ingredients to those listed on the poster. Two ingredients, salt and sodium nitrate, are on the "danger" list. Three other ingredients, corn syrup, dextrose and artificial flavoring, are on the "caution" list.

Here's a complete list of ingredients that CSPI suggests eliminating, if possible, from your diet:

- Artificial colorings — CSPI says some cause cancer or have been inadequately tested; others cause hyperactivity in children.

- Brominated vegetable oil (BVO) — An emulsifier used in soft drinks that leaves a residue in the body.

- Butylated hydroxytoluene (BHT) — An antioxidant that is poorly tested, remains in the body and causes occasional allergic reactions.

- Caffeine — A stimulant contained in coffee, tea, cocoa and some soft drinks that pregnant women should avoid because it may cause miscarriages or birth defects.

- Quinine — A flavoring used in tonic water and quinine water that cures malaria but also may cause birth defects.

- Saccharin — a synthetic sweetener that may cause cancer.

- Salt (sodium chloride) — Contributes to high blood pressure, which increase the risk of heart attack and stroke. CSPI says everyone should eat less salt.

- Sodium nitrate or sodium nitrite — A preservative, coloring and flavoring used in bacon, ham, frankfurters, luncheon meats, smoked fish and corned beef that prevents the growth of bacteria but may cause cancer.

- Sugar (sucrose) — CSPI says sugar contains no vitamins, minerals or protein, and contributes to overweight and tooth decay.

ALL THIS talk about dangerous foods may cause you to crawl into a shell, arguing "Life is too short to worry about what I eat."

According to the results of a recent survey of funeral directors, you may be around a lot longer than you think. The funeral directors report that bodies take much longer to decompose now than they did before people began ingesting large amounts of artificial preservatives.

Violence Up; Coroner's Business Booming

By JOHN HORGAN

No matter who wins San Mateo County's June 6 coronor's election, that person is going to be faced with a phenomenon common to most of America's suburbs: Violent death is on the upswing.

That is the grim opinion of a man who ought to know, Dr. Boyd Stephens. He is San Francisco's coroner. Stephens, 38, lives in Daly City because he believes that The City has become too dangerous. He is familiar also with the trend toward increasing violence in suburbia.

"It's just the way society is going," says Stephens. "All of us are facing the same thing. It will happen to you soon. And as it happens you will have to upgrade your coroner's office."

Perhaps the depressing future is now in this county. The statistics would seem to bear out the Stephens theory.

In 1967, this county's coroner tended to 97 suicide cases. There were just 17 homicides. Ten years later, those numbers were 110 and 34, respectively. Our murder rate has just about doubled in a decade.

As violent deaths become more frequent, there will be a need to modernize and improve the coroner's operations, says Stephens. "It just stands to reason," he states.

Stephens is in a good position to comment on the coroner's profession because of his own credentials. He has been San Francisco's coroner for seven years. It is in the past 10 years that The City has seen its homicide rate leap off the chart, nearly doubling in a decade of bloodshed.

In 1967, the coroner's office in San Francisco took care of 79 murder cases. In 1977, 149 were handled. In that same span, the suicide statistics remained fairly stable, fluctuating between a high of 281 in 1970 and a low of 195 in 1976.

San Francisco's homicide rate has increased sixfold in the past 40 years.

The coroner's typical workload is an onerous one. The complexity of the law has increased dramatically in the past decade or so. There is a pressing demand for more and better forensic data from trained pathologists like Stephens.

"The types of cases we are seeing now require more expertise," explains Stephens. "More and more, we find that court cases hang in the balance on the scientific evidence. We can't afford to be inaccurate."

Stephens says attorneys and juries in this county will undoubtedly begin to question the coroner more closely as it becomes clear that the forensic expert is a key part of a particular trial.

As this occurs, says Stephens, "You will have to improve the quality and capability of your coroner's system."

Stephens emphasizes that he is not an expert in the workings of this county's coroner's office. He says he is basing his opinion on the few times he has dealt with local officials here and on the prevailing trends he sees nationwide.

Stephens says he can see the logic of separating the duties of coroner and public administrator, something this county has not yet done.

Stephens believes that the coroner provides the community with a great deal of positive benefits, in spite of the position's relatively grisly image. Says he, "I'm a doctor. And this is part of community medicine. It is a branch of patient medicine. It's rare when you have a case which doesn't involve other people — family, friends and so on."

As an example, he cites the 1977 cases of what has been termed Legionnaires' Disease. Stephens says better autopsy work early on could have saved lives later. Stephens is especially concerned about the increasing amount of time he spends in court.

"Ten years ago," he says, "most murder trials would last maybe two days. Today, they are much longer." Last year, he says he received no less than six subpoenas to appear in court in one day. That's the most he's ever gotten in a single day. He says his office gave testimony in more than 300 court cases last year.

"Your findings must be incontestable," he says. "The worst cases are those where we can't find an answer."

Although, in a very real sense, death is his life, Stephens is far from pleased about what he sees around him.

"I think there is a trend toward overkill now," he says. He is worried that gross brutality is becoming more common.

He says he is aware of San Francisco's own decaying state.

"Every city goes through birth, development and old age," he says. "You can tell which way San Francisco is going. . . . We are losing people. Businesses and people are leaving the city."

Yet, the coroner's business is booming.

Gourmet Gadgetry—Where will it end?

By RO LOGRIPPO

It may have started a few years ago when they introduced the all-in-one kitchen unit with removable parts that mixed, blended and extracted fruit juices. With a gadget like that, you might have told yourself when you bought it, you'd never need another piece of kitchen equipment.

But how were you to know they'd start marketing a microwave oven for the home. Who could blame you for breaking a promise to yourself to acquire what obviously would fulfill your every cooking dream.

Every dream, that is, until they invented food processors. Is there a super chef alive who's been able to resist what is probably the last word in gourmet gear? If so, it's not you.

At least now you can sit there smug in the knowledge that you have equipped yourself with the best the culinary world has to offer.

Or have you?

If you want a positive response to that question, don't ask the hundreds of merchants who gathered at San Francisco's Brooks Hall last week to tout their latest products. It would be hard for them or anyone else who attended the Second National Gourmet Cookware Show to have left without more than a few purchases in mind.

Consider the Raclette Stove. It's a complete tabletop cooker with a heating element that enables you and your guests to prepare an entire meal from your places in the individual pans provided. Originally designed by the Swiss, the Raclette also can be used as a stand for fondue or as a warming plate.

Or maybe you'd rather barbecue. Could be you need the five-in-one year-round cooker called Mr. Meat Smoker. Inspired from a centuries-old Oriental cooking method, it has a water pan between the heating element and the food which allows you to cook in a steam/smoke vapor which flavors the meat and bastes it in its own juices. You'll never have to bother with turning or basting your food with Mr. Meat Smoker.

But maybe what you really need are just a few more gadgets.

Take the Tutove rolling pin for instance. One of more than a dozen items in the Cuisinart Cooking School Collection, it is hardly your ordinary rolling pin. Nor is it in your ordinary rolling pin price category. This super-duper $65 model is a heavy, ball-bearing pin especially designed to roll puff pastry. It's made of special plastic and ridged lengthwise to prevent dough from sticking to its surface.

If puff pastry isn't in your future, however, perhaps croissants are, in which case you might want to think seriously about the new Cuisinart croissant cutter that will retail for $39. Not only does it minimize dough waste, it has sharp blades within its nickel steel frame that cut a series of triangles ready to be shaped into croissants.

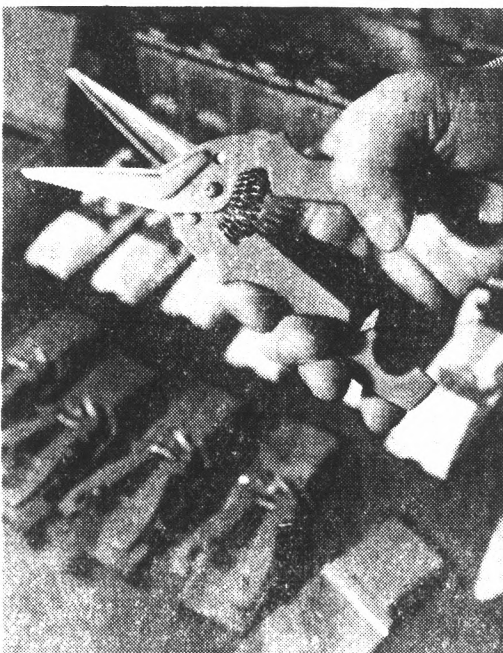

And if you're thinking about confections or even just plain bread you might as well think about the vibrating sifter Harper Lee International is selling. Billed as "a welcome aid for busy young mothers who sometimes need three hands" or "for those handicapped with arthritis and muscular deficiencies," the battery-operated gadget holds 3 cups of powder and sifts at the touch of a button.

If none of these kitchen aids tempt you, it's possible a few thousand other new products will. Perhaps your kitchen is destined for the appliance they're calling the "soft drink factory" . . . or kitchen cutters that never need sharpening . . . or a Chicago-style deep dish pizza maker . . . or even a Swedish coffee brewing and vacuum jug system that provides hot liquid down to the last drop.

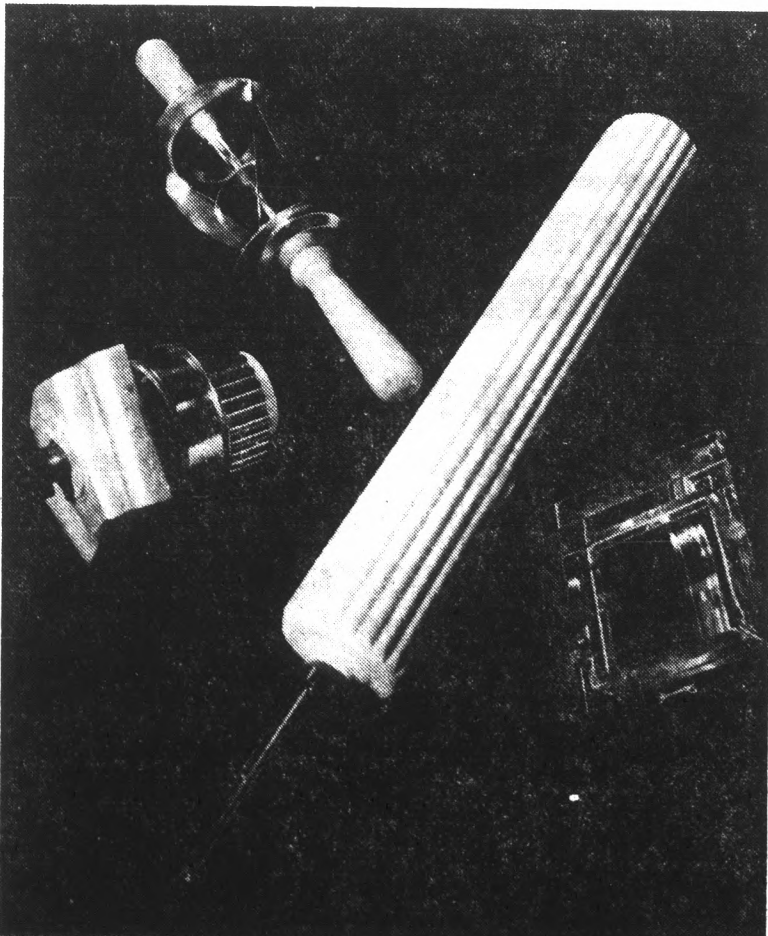

When, you might wonder, will they stop bombarding you with new cooking paraphernalia?

Maybe when you get tired of eating. Till then, start looking for more room in the cupboards.

KITCHEN CUT-UP

The Alfred Zanger Company in Connecticut is importing this $8 Tullen Kitchen Cutter from New Zealand. Sold with its own wall plaque, the cutters never need sharpening, say the manufacturers, who insist they will cut everything from chicken bones and frozen food to carpet and tin cans. Peck's Gourmet Cookware in Burlingame and Kitchens, Etc., in San Mateo are among suppliers.

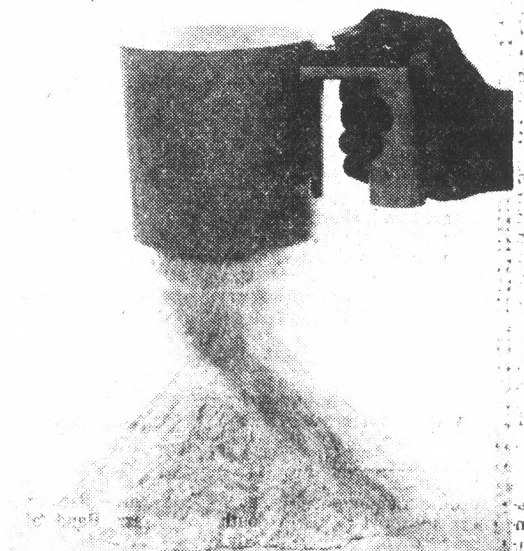

GADGET HAPPY?

Cuisinart, the food processor firm, has added more than a dozen gadgets to its line. Those pictured include a Chef Bouchee Cutter ($65), a Croissant Cutter ($39), a Tutove Rolling Pin ($65), and a Square Patty Shell Cutter ($19). The firm is also introducing aprons and processor covers labeled with the brand name. Some of the local stores which will be stocking the new Cuisinart products include Peck's Gourmet Cookware in Burlingame, Renita's in Millbrae and Kitchens, etc. in San Mateo.

THE VIBRATING SIFTER

Just touch the button and this sifter starts vibrating. The battery-operated gadget, a product of Harper-Lee International, was among the new merchandise introduced at the Gourmet Cookware Show in San Francisco. Peninsula shops selling the sifter will include Renita's in Millbrae, Kitchens Etc. in San Mateo, Peck's Gourmet Cookware in Burlingame and Macy's.

A PLACE FOR PARAPHERNALIA

Wannamaker's of San Rafael is selling this country kitchen work center in three sizes. Handcrafted from Appalachian red oak, it features storage areas for knives, towels, and utensils as well as a drawer and shelf for gourmet gear. Sold through interior designers, it comes with solid brass hooks.

Summer Sessions to Begin

Summer session classes start the week of June 19-22 and continue in most cases for eight weeks in the Jefferson Union High School Adult Division.

Exhaust Emission Analysis

The California State Automobile Association (AAA) will be offering free exhaust emission analysis tests in the parking lot of Westlake Shopping Center June 12.

The program, known as "Community Gas Savers," will be between 9:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. A yellow van will be located under the "Westlake" sign on the north side of the parking lot.

The CSAA van contains electronic testing equipment that determines the condition of automobile engines in relation to gasoline consumption.

The free testing procedure is simple and requires about three minutes per car. AAA membership is not required to participate. When the car is to be tested pulls up to the CSAA van, an infrared exhaust analyzer probe is placed in the exhaust pipe. A sample of the engine exhaust is measured for carbon monoxide (CO) and hydrocarbons (HC) being released into the atmosphere. Readings are taken at idle and at 2,500 revolutions per minute.

The results of this test indicate the presence of problems that affect engine performance and fuel economy, identifying the general areas where malfunctions may exist. The driver of each vehicle will be given a personalized record of his car's emission test, along with an explanation.

In all instances, the specifications and values used in the CGSP tests are those considered standard by each specific manufacturer and those accepted as normal for efficient engine operation. If the CO and HC readings fall within the accepted values, then adjustments are not needed. The level of these gases do much in determining what adjustments are required to increase engine efficiency.

Historical Materials Sought

The San Mateo County Historical Association is collecting materials for a special two-day fund-raiser to benefit the Historical Association and its Museum.

The Board of Directors are requesting donations of all types of saleable objects, including furniture, appliances, books, tools and other household articles. Antiques and art objects are welcome. All donations are tax deductible.

Materials can be left at the Museum on the College of San Mateo campus any weekday. To arrange a pickup call 574-4441.

This special two-day sale will be June 17-18 from 10 to 5 at the ground floor of the Crocker Bank Building, corner of El Camino Real and Bovet Road, San Mateo.

D.C. Rec Ends Its Spring Program

The Daly City Recreation Department has scheduled June 10 as the final day of their spring playground program.

The following special events are scheduled for that day: M. H. Tobias Playday, 11 a.m.-3 p.m., 725 Southgate Ave., Daly City; and F. D. Roosevelt Playday, 11 a.m.-3 p.m., 1201 Skyline Drive, Daly City.

Both events will feature barbecues, tug-of-wars, face painting, relays and volleyball. Parents as well as children can attend.

The Recreation Department has also announced that the summer playground program is tentatively scheduled to open June 20 at 1 p.m.

in such diverse fields as Hawaiian quilting, the Treasures of King Tut, scuba diving, lost wax casting jewelry and traveling to the Orient, as well as in the usual variety of academic, business, fine arts, home-making, industrial arts, physical fitness and music subjects. Classes start at 7 p.m.; register during the first class.

Some of the new classes include: Hawaiian quilting, applique work using flowers and symbols of the islands. Thursdays at Serramonte High School.

Treasures of King Tut, a survey of artistic and cultural information about great Egyptian art, Mondays at Westmoor High School for four weeks.

Scuba diving, stressing underwater safety, Wednesdays at Jefferson High School.

Jewelry making, with lost wax casting, Mondays at Serramonte.

Traveling to the Orient, a survey of the culture and cuisine of the Orient (but not including actual cooking, although taught by the instructor who teaches Chinese cooking), Tuesdays at Serramonte for six weeks.

Stop Smoking Clinic, a positive-oriented class to help you gain more awareness of smoking, twice a week (Tuesdays and Thursdays) for four weeks, at Westmoor.

Pet Health Care, how to treat your dog's or cat's health problems, Tuesdays at Westmoor.

Arts and Crafts, with batik, macrame and silk-screen, Wednesdays at Terra Nova High School.

Television Studio Production, with practice in Channel 8 programming, Tuesdays at 2316 Palmetto Ave., Pacifica.

Creative Watercolor Techniques, from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. on Thursdays at Country Club Apartments, 21 Park Plaza Drive, '22. For details call 755-8558.

Day Camp Set

A Summer Day Camp for children who live in the Daly City area will be July 3 through Aug. 11.

Sponsored by the Grace Presbyterian Church, children entering grades one through eight in September are eligible to attend. Activities will include outdoor camping experiences, art, music, athletics, drama, cooking, swimming lessons and nature study.

Sessions will be held Mondays through Fridays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. under the supervision of Day Camp director Anne Amburgey and her staff. To accommodate the schedules of working parents, special activities are arranged for participants one hour before and after the regular program. Lunches will be provided.

Children may register for the entire period or for weekly sessions. The cost for the six weeks period is $25 per child, if paid in advance, or $5 per weekly session. Family rates are $40 for two children and $50 for three. Partial scholarship assistance will be available for eligible children.

Official registration day is June 25, from nine to five in the Social Hall, Grace Presbyterian Church, 515 Winchester St. (corner of Crocker and Winchester), Daly City.

For details call 333-9023 or 586-6515.

CULTURAL ACTIVITY

Students at Thomas Edison School celebrated a multi-cultural fair recently, with parents, teachers and friends organizing displays, cooking demonstrations and various ethnic dances and songs. A multi-cultural lunch was served and open house continued for two days. Mrs. Maria Hietala coordinated the program.

Retired Jazz Musicians Form Daly City Band

Retired jazz musicians never really retire; they get together, form a club and play for fun — like the South City Jazz Band of Daly City.

The seven-member band played at San Francisco Plays the Palace, a weekend benefit Salute to the Palace of Fine Arts and the Palace, Bay and Lyon Streets.

With a repertoire of Dixieland jazz music, members of the South City Jazz Band have been playing professionally, both individually and with various other musicians, in the Bay Area since 1939 and a year ago decided to establish themselves as a musical group.

The group is composed of Ken Wright on banjo; Bert Whelan, a retired city employee on tuba; Leroy Packard, San Jose Telephone company employee on drums; and Herb Welch, retired school teacher, on clarinet.

In addition there is Eddie Gilman who calls himself "the poor man's Harry James," a retired milk wagon driver playing first trumpet, and Charlie Hober, who is a "stickler for perfection" on second trumpet, the "ad lib chair."

The group rehearses at the home of Charlie McCarthy, retired Naval architect, leader of the group and trombone player.

Serramonte just concluded its second annual World Team Tennis tournament. The teams consisted of both students and administrators.

The winning team is the Los Angeles Strings. The team members were Patrice Callagy, Lindsay Chu, Shawn Dolgin and Lisa Moeller. The Phoenix Raquets which had Mr. Dubois (principal) and Mr. Fitzpatrick (English teacher) finished a distant last.

Attention students: If you purchase a 1978-79 student body card for $4.50 by today, you will be eligible to win three pairs of tickets to San Francisco Giants' baseball games. The drawing will take place tomorrow. There will be three winners. Take advantage of this opportunity because when student body cards go on sale in September, they will be $5.

Serramonte's Junior-Senior Prom was May 27 in the San Franciscan Room of the Hyatt Regency in San Francisco.

The band was Cold Steel and the theme was Always and Forever by Heatwave. The evening was enjoyed by 125 couples who attended.

Recently, Serramonte's California Scholarship Federation (CSF) held its last meeting of the year. This year CSF raised $1,200, the largest treasury in its history, and they were also Club of the Year along with the Sprockets.

At the meeting the winners of CSF scholarships were announced. The winners are: Gina Chornis — $50, David Levy — $50, Andrea Cullen — $150, Loretta McNeil — $200 and Mylene Schwimmer — $200.

Fifty-Plus Club Tour

After two weeks plus in the hospital, it is great to get home and find proof that the rest of the world is still spinning around on a smooth and even orbit.

Members of the Fifty Plus Club of Pacifica are all packed to go on a tour north that will include viewing the Portland Oregon Rose Parade and Festival from a covered grandstand.

Also scheduled are visits to Klamath Falls, Crater Lake, the Space Needle in Seattle, Mount Vernon, Oregon, Diablo Lake, Vancouver Island, Buchard Gardens and Samoa House.

The tour has been planned by Mrs. Edna Laurel Calhan.

JUST HOME from a two-day trip to Reno are the members of the Westlake chapter of the AARP.

Club members managed to squeeze lots of fun into the visit into Reno, Nevada. With Reno as base, they visited Sparks and Boomtown before returning to Reno to check the action and scenery at the new MGM Casino.

Next week, after a rest from their junket, they will hold a luncheon in the Westlake Community Center. Members are reminded to take their own cups and cutlery with them when they assemble at noon.

Servart Ojakian, the publicity person, wants the community to be aware of the "Turnabout Shop" operated by the AARP. The shop is located at 6373 Mission Street and senior citizens are invited to bring good clothing they can no longer use as well as items that they might have gathering dust about the house, as donations to the shop. Seniors then have an excellent location to shop for bargains!

THE DALY CITY Dolphins have increased the size of their team by two. Tami Stuckert, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Stuckert, is the newest face along the pool edge and joining her there, after having taken a leave for awhile, is Rachel Bille.

Louanne Heath

The team coach is Chip Zimmerman, who reminds parents that their child need only be able to swim two laps of the pool to be eligible to join the Dolphins. Try-outs are held daily at 5 p.m. at Westmoor pool. A pre-team program is being planned for the summer. More information is available at 5 p.m. each weekday at the pool.

MRS. HILDA Heagney was honored for 35 years of dedication to the Daly City Area Girl Scout Association during a luncheon held on May 25 at the Southern Table in South San Francisco.

Mrs. Heagney, who has been a neighborhood chairman, camp director, and has held assorted other responsible positions, shared the honorees table with several other ladies who have served Girl Scouting with distinction.

Among the others honored were Mrs. Margaret Damon, the leader of Daly City Troop 13 and her daughter, Mrs. Susan Bacon, both of whom received 30-year pins. Mrs. Dolores Riggs, who was a Brownie in Mrs. Heagney's troop, received a 25-year pin and Mrs. Mary Ann Dale, Mrs. Zella Heneise and Mrs. Fran Goldberg were awarded 20 year pins.

Fifteen year pins went to Mrs. Norma Young and Sue Scaduto and 10-year pins went to Mrs. Bunne Pardini, Mrs. Sally Raeta, Mrs. Joan Passanisi and Mrs. Jacki Plichcik, Cheryl Figone, Michelle Rushton, Karen Dale, Nanette Futrell, Michyle Lapedis, Sue McDowell, Theresa Clark, Mariane Galvin, Robin Raeta, Karen Schwarzbach, and Karen Rodgers.

Mrs. Bonnie Hammille, Mrs. Mari Jane Modena, Kathy Hughes and Dorothy Carter were given five-year pins.

MONDAY, members of the Bay Area chapter of Friends Outside will hold a fashion show and wine-tasting at Nate Thurmond's "The Beginning" in San Francisco.

Volunteers will model fashions from the 1930s through the fifties, and Michael Howell will provide guitar music background.

Tickets are $3.50. For details, call Minnie Baker at the Friends Outside Thrift Shop.

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Excellent Salads Rewarding Meal

Among the many excellent salads at VINCE'S Italian and Seafood restaurant, our favorite is the Combination Louie, specially tossed with crab meat, shrimp and prawns with a Louie dressing. This alone makes a rewarding meal, particularly so if you order some of the garlic-cheese bread. Luncheon patrons at the NEW SAN REMO in San Francisco's North Beach were quick to spot TV and movie star Martin Sheen, who dined sumptuously on Chicken Cacciatore and complimented Host FRANK ROMAGUERA on the superb, family-style continental cuisine and the restaurant's remarkable Victorian restoration. PHIL LEHR'S Pay-By-Ounce STEAKERY, on the lower level of the San Francisco Hilton Tower, is a favorite dining spot for TV personalities. Seen dining here the other night (separate parties) were KPIX sportscaster Wayne Walker and KGO-TV weekend news anchorman Steve Davis.

Beat the Heat With Bayhill Gang

Summertime business is off to a bustling start at the BAYHILL LOUNGE in San Mateo. MEL CICERO says the recent hot spell has the bartenders on the double mixing cool libations for the friendly crowds who meet here to relax and to dance to the beat of the TRI SOUNDS. Did you know that there are over 27 different combination plates at LA PINATA Mexican restaurant? Each offers a choice of beef, chicken or cheese filling in the enchiladas. All are served with refried beans, rice, salad, and corn tortillas. A great buy! ROSEBUD'S ENGLISH PUB in San Francisco is a discovery for prime rib lovers. Three different cuts are offered: the thick and juicy "Rosebud's Cut," the "English Cut," sliced thin in the traditional British manner, and a brown and crusty end cut. The $8.95 price includes soup or salad, Yorkshire pudding and two fresh vegetables. Steamed Clams Bordelaise and Sea Stee Sinaloa with garlic bread are fast-moving items at ROMANO'S in Rockaway Beach, Pacifica. "Come in any night," said Owner ENRICO ROMANO. "We're open seven days a week from 4 p.m." Reservations are not required.

Canneloni Dinner Is June Special

YOLANDA'S special family dinner in June is Canneloni for $3.95. There are always two daily features, and the menu offers a wide selection of Italian favorites. Presiding over the kitchen is Chef Jim Castro. June and July are months to celebrate at BEARDSLEY'S, Burlingame. To observe the fifth anniversary of the restaurant, JACK O'BRIEN, PAT FINNEGAN and LES HYLTON are offering a special luncheon (includes a glass of complimentary wine) every day. Also, if you order a drink at lunch using a well or house spirit, you get a double. Tomorrow being the first Saturday of the month, ask about the "Fun Night" happening in the Upstairs Room. Happy Birthday to DEBBIE LYN, co-owner and hostess at LITTLE JOE'S FISH FACTORY. Debbie is no stranger to the food industry. She has had experience in all phases of the business in the past 30 years. Her sweet smile and enthusiasm for all things is another plus for her. LOUIS FRUTSCH, owner of L'AUVERGNE French restaurant, feels that dining out should always be an enjoyable occasion. Service, top quality food, promptness, and cleanliness are all important factors which patrons look for — and they find them at this Redwood City restaurant.

Pros Team Up For Day of Golf

JIM SNIADOCKI, owner of SCOTTY CAMPBELL'S restaurant, Redwood City, played in a golf tournament the other Friday with Len Rhode, 49ers tackle, at Palo Alto Hills Country Club. As you have probably guessed, a lavish dinner party was held later at Scotty Campbell's. Chef Mike Otero is the culinary master at CAPTAIN CHARLES restaurant, Rockaway Beach, who prepares the delicious Eggplant a la Captain Charles. This house specialty is dipped in butter, fried to a golden crisp, then topped with prosciutto and muenster cheese, and Neopolitan sauce. LEHR'S GREENHOUSE Garden Restaurant in San Francisco is a luncheon discovery for shoppers on nearby Union Square. Slip a fresh strawberry daiquiri beneath a towering banana palm tree, then dine on gourmet continental dishes such as Lehr's famous Chicken Kiev. THE KING'S TABLE BUFFET in Redwood City is a popular banquet spot for Peninsula clubs and business firms. Among groups meeting here are the Redwood City B'nai B'rith, Eagles Club Women's Auxiliary, the Exchange Club and Ampex Corporation. Guests help themselves to the abundant buffet so dining can be as swift, or as leisurely, as they want it to be. And private groups pay just the regular, low luncheon and dinner prices.

Finals Week at School

By STEVE KAUFMANN

Westmoor High School has only two more regular school days left before it moves into what is termed by most students as "The hardest week of the year." This dreaded time is finals week, in which students take their final examinations in their classes.

WESTMOOR'S Community Service Club held Memorial Day parties at two of Daly City's convalescent homes, the St. Francis Convalescent Pavilion and the St. Francis Convalescent Hospital. A small band played songs in rooms also decorated by the students. They donated plants and flowers to the hospitals for the holiday.

WESTMOOR'S Filipino Club presented songs and dances from the Philippines Islands during lunch periods, May 31, in the Little Theatre, for standing-room-only crowds.

The production, which took three months to put together, was headed by Nympha Tantenguo, who taught dances from the Muslim, Spanish, mountain and zone dances — all native to the Islands. The entire show was emceed by M. Usin Pisingan, the club's advisor, and the props were done by Sylvester Mateo, a noted Filipino artist.

THE SOPHOMORE class is having a car wash at the Mobil Station located at the corner of Southgate Avenue and St. Francis Boulevard June 10. Proceeds from the tickets ($1 each) will go the class fund.

THE LAST rally of the school year, the "Hello/Good-bye Rally", went well. This year's cheerleaders were wished well and next year's were welcomed. Also featured was Mike Montes, the rally commissioner for next year, running the rally.

SENIORS interested in a group picture can pick one up for $5. This color shot features members of the graduating class of 1978, photographed on the lawn. See Mrs. Spencer in the main office for details.

The junior and sophomore classes held elections, May 25. The results: Junior officers, Marisa Matteucci, president; Angela Priolo, vice-president; Kathy Bolton, treasurer and Student Congress representative, Karen Hunziker, Kathy Hansel and Lisa Braski.

The winners from the sophomore class were: Rachele Fernandez, president; Sue Starin, vice-president; Christine Browne, treasurer; and Student Congress representatives Cathy Holmes and Julie Savignano.

SEVERAL juniors visited the American Institutions classes to discuss senior pictures for next year. They distributed cards, which students filled out. The pictures will be taken during the summer and the details will be mailed to students' homes.

CONGRATULATIONS to Mrs. Kathy Mallinger, a science teacher. She left school due to pregnancy and gave birth to a boy.

MEMBERS of the Journalism Department went on a picnic last Sunday at San Bruno Park. Celebrating a successful year, this group of journalists did a fine job.

A SPECIAL awards banquet was held at Castaway Restaurant for students in the Student Government class, as well as the student body officers.

Those eligible received their Student Government blocks and pins.

SPORTS — Practice for sophomore football has begun. The freshman athletes have been practicing plays and drills.

Westmoor's NPL championship swim team held a victory party June 2. Hosted by gold medalist Tom Wisher and his parents, the party included the coach of the team, Jim Ahern.

THE SOPHOMORE and junior classes had election speeches May 24, with elections following May 25. The winners will serve in the spring semester of 1978 and will be announced soon.

Congratulations to the advanced drama class for presenting an excellent performance of the one-act play "The Ugly Duckling." It played for students during lunch and most seemed to enjoy it. Congratulations for a job well done!

Students who purchased tickets for Marriott's Great America to be used the day after the Prom (May 27) received them last Monday through Wednesday. This offer, a $4 discount per ticket, proved to be a popular idea with many Westmoor students.

Westmoor's student body officers who have served the school for the last year were honored at a special awards banquet sponsored by the student government at the Castaways restaurant. These students were presented with their student government blocks and pins. Thanks for your dedicated work throughout the school year.

THE SCHOOL library will close officially June 1 for the great task of inventory and textbook return. Miss Lory, the librarian, and her dedicated staff have all done an outstanding job this year.

All the best to one of Westmoor's teachers, Jerry Littrell. Next year he will begin teaching at Terra Nova High School. Littrell has served as the teacher-advisor for the school paper, the Rampage, and for the school yearbook, the Rambler. He also served as the coach of the victorious girls basketball team. I wish you well and Westmoor thank you for six years of dedicated service.

A welcome back to one of the social science teachers, Miss Hilde Seidel. She returned to Westmoor after a three-week illness. It's good to have her back again.

ONE OF Westmoor's science clubs, the Atom's Family, went on an all-day field trip to the Marine Ecological Institute. The group left early in the morning and spent the day aboard a boat observing and learning about marine life. The club, headed by Wilton Wong, is the only science club at Westmoor. Hope all who went had a good time.

Any Westmoor student who has a summer job and wishes to get school credit for it can do so by seeing Mr. Hyde, the work experience co-ordinator, for the correct form.

Westmoor students, male and female, are invited to become part of a group sponsored by the Coast Guard. Students will out on motorized vessels to learn seamanship, rescue operations and just for recreation. For more information, there is a sign-up sheet in the Counseling Hall.

SPORTS — Congratulations to Ruth and Esther Lamsam, twins who attend Westmoor and who placed second in the NPL badminton finals. These two girls have been active in tennis and are on the AAU Dolphins Swim Club. Good work!

Also, Pat Burke took fourth place in the competition. Wenn-Yi Ting was unable to play due to an injury. Best of luck next season.

B'nai Israel Weekend Services

Sabbath services will be observed in the Sanctuary of Congregation B'nai Israel, 1575 Annie St., Daly City, Friday at 8:30 p.m.

The services will be conducted by Rabbi Ira Book, assisted by Cantor Salo Blumenthal, who will chant the liturgy.

One of the highlights of the evening will be the participation in the Sabbath Service of five young men, Uri Cohn, Stuart Robinson, Bobby Rosenberg, Avi Suissa and Michael Weiner, in honor of the conclusion of four years of Hebrew School after their Bar Mitzvah.

Saturday (Shabbat) morning services commence at 10:30 a.m. in the Temple sanctuary.

Rabbi Book will conduct "Ehev Shavut" services using the format of a Torah study and discussion session. To be read will be Parsha: "Bamidbar."

SSF Hurdler 2nd Fastest in U.S.

By JOHN MURPHY

BAKERSFIELD — Raw ability may be good enough for second best — in the state, and in the nation — but second best isn't good enough for El Camino High hurdler Kim Costello.

Costello finished second in the 110 low hurdles in Saturday night's 60th annual state prep track and field meet at Bakersfield City College. Coming so close frustrated her.

Kim and rival Kris Costello (no relation) of San Jose's Lynbrook High ran neck-and-neck in the 110's, with Kris breaking the tape just ahead of her northern adversary.

Kris Costello's time (13.83) established new state and national records. Kim finished in 13.96, a lifetime best considering her previous best was a hand-timed 13.9 at last week's Central Coast Section meet (hand-timed marks are almost always lower).

It was a good effort by Kim. Especially considering that she has missed many workouts this season (due in part to illness and an injury) and has not really been concentrating her efforts on the hurdles.

According to Kim's coach, Jerry Sheehy, she had been working mainly on sprints in order to build up her speed between hurdles.

"I did this on natural talent, in a way, because I haven't practiced the hurdles all year," Costello said. "I've been running the 220, high jump, long jump and the relay. I didn't run the hurdles that much."

"But it worked out good because I'm faster than I was last year. The form is not as good, though."

For Kim it was her third state meet (she made the state meet as a sophomore while attending Los Angeles' James Monroe High). Last year she had finished third in the state (while Kris Costello was winning a gold medal).

"The time is good, but I can do better," she said. "It's frustrating when you know you could do better and you're not doing it."

Sheehy was pleased with Kim's time but agreed that there is room for improvement.

"Kim performed extremely well. It's totally amazing. She did it all on pure talent. Eventually she could beat that other girl (Kris Costello) if they both progress at the same rate," he said.

Sheehy feels that Kim could benefit greatly by running with Ed Parker's AAU team — the Millbrae Lions.

"With more advanced coaching techniques and some hard work she could become a world-class athlete," Sheehy commented. "Kim's an enormously talented kid. She's a 13.5 — she's that good."

Kim, who may attend Cal-State Northridge, had some ideas on what she'd like to improve on before she hits the college ranks.

"I've got to work on my start and my speed," she said. "I want more speed. Coaches say to you 'your FORM is what's going to get you over the hurdles; but last year I had great form and no speed. It's the SPEED that gets you over the hurdles.'"

Whatever was getting Kim over the hurdles it was getting her over pretty rapidly. Her time is now the second fastest in the nation behind Kris Costello's.

Other national records set Saturday night include an incredible pole vault of 17-5 1/4 by Anthony Curran of Crespi High (Encino), a sizzling mile relay time of 3:11.57 by Los Angeles' Banning High and an 880 mark of 2:07.93 set by Camden's (San Jose) Ann Regan.

In all, six state meet records were broken by the girls, including two by Livermore's Cheri Williams, who ran the two-mile in 10:17.71 and the mile in 4:44.95.

Andrew Hill's Kelia Bolton captured the 100 and 220 Bolton, before transferring to San Jose's Hill, attended Oceana last year along with her good friend Elaine Parker (who also competes in the 100 and 220).

This duo has also competed for the aforementioned Millbrae Lions.

Saturday night Parker and Bolton were matching stride for stride in the 100 until Elaine pulled a hamstring about 10 yards away from the finish. Bolton won the race in 10.92 (while Parker finished fourth) and then went on to win the 220 in 23.99.

Parker was forced to scratch from the 220. Bolton feels that the experience she has gotten from running with the Millbrae Lions has made a difference for her.

"It's benefited me a lot. When I first started running, all I could do was an 11.3 in the 100 and a 25.3 in the 220 — so it did me a lot of good," Kelia said. "Mr. Parker, he talks to me all the time about it (track). He talks to both me and Elaine and gives us advice, and we take it pretty well."

Kelia doesn't exactly relish the idea of running against Elaine in meets such as this. "I don't really like racing against her," she said. "Sometimes it affects our friendship. We're real close friends."

Bolton, who will be attending UC Berkeley in the fall, will first be competing in the Women's Nationals in Indiana. She is also hoping to make the AAU-affiliated Junior National Team which will be going to Europe this summer.

Kelia's victories in the 100 and 220 and her leg in Andrew Hill's second-place 440 relay team helped Hill to a meet victory in the girls' division. Livermore, paced by Cheri Williams, finished second.

In the boys' division El Camino-Oceanside edged Gardena and Pasadena by one point. It was the first state meet championship for a San Diego school since 1938.

Carlmont's Bob Love placed sixth in the two mile with a time of 9:09.0. Love was in fourth place for most of the race but got passed by two competitors at the finish line.

"My coach always says that you've got to have that kick at the end. I guess I didn't have it, no excuses, though. Actually, I'm happy to get sixth. Probably what killed me is I didn't get position at the beginning. But it's hard to say," Love commented.

Sequoia hurdler Malcolm Dixon ran an impressive 14.41 to place fourth in the 120 highs.

Dixon was surprised that the meet was held at night (he prefers running in daylight) and thought that might have had a negative effect on his race.

"If it was daytime I could have done a lot better," Dixon said. "I don't know, maybe it's just a psych job."

The County had two local competitors in the 440 — Woodside's Tony Thompson and Menlo-Atherton's Art Nicholson. Thompson took fifth with a time of 48.08 while Nicholson had to settle for seventh (48.55).

"My goal was to make it to state. Period," remarked Thompson. "So I guess I've done everything I set out to do. I didn't get my 46.6, though."

San Carlos hurdler Rick Luttrell was looking for a 36.5 in order to place in the 330 lows. But he could only manage a 37.78 (good for seventh place) among a quick field.

"I just didn't have any zip at all," Luttrell explained. "Usually at the end I can lift my legs but I couldn't even do that. I really thought I could get in the 36's."

The only County performer to make it into the finals in a field event was Sequoia's Jody Barker. She put the shot 42-2 1/4 to come in eighth in the state.

Le Pacini

As has been said here many times, and often over the years by anyone native to this area, everything being equal, San Francisco is a far superior baseball town to Oakland.

This year, everything is equal in the most important element that is needed to draw fans anywhere; in any sport-winning. And the Giants have the clear edge; in fact, a clear chasm.

EVEN THOUGH the Giants have been blessed with unusually good weather, they have drawn large enough crowds on bad weather days and nights to prove another of my contentions over the years. Bad weather here has nothing to do with a lack of fan support, except as an excuse — for players who can't cut it and for managements that haven't been willing to hustle.

As usual, the "big-time" media is — as this is written — ignoring the Giants. For the past month they have been among the two or three top winning teams in baseball; have played some of the big leagues' most exciting baseball in front of record-breaking crowds; have the best pitching staff in the National League and maybe in all the game; and I have yet to see them featured in one of the national sports publications; their exposure on national TV, compared even to some also-rans; has been virtually nil; and although this may be a good omen — I don't think I've heard Howard Cosell mention them.

Don't be so quick, however, to give the Giants and Bob Lurie ALL of the credit for the up-swing in attendance, because growing interest in baseball seems to be a national attitude. In fact, baseball just might once again be truly America's Favorite Pasttime.

ACCORDING to the latest annual survey of sports attendance published by the Daily Racing Form, baseball crowds in both the minor and major leagues increased by almost 1 million the past year, for a total count of better than 53 million. Only thoroughbred and harness racing — as they do every year — drew more spectators, 79,455,828. At that, racing lost about 2.5 million from last year, so baseball closed the gap.

What especially is significant is that for the first time in years baseball out-drew football (both college and pro) and auto racing, the latter of which is ahead of football. Actually, the NFL lost over 50,000 in attendance, while college football was drawing nearly 1 million more than it had in 1976.

SOME interesting discoveries in the latest team earned run averages. As you know, the Giants have the best ERA in the National League, going away. They are almost half a run better than their closest competitor. What is surprising is that their closest competitor is . . . Montreal. Almost as surprising is that Philadelphia, which people keep saying needs another starter, is barely behind Montreal, that the supposedly — thin Cubs are not far behind Phillie, and that Los Angeles only is tied with San Diego in fifth place.

Oakland's great ERA, nearly half a run lower than the Giants' (although they are in an admittedly weaker league), takes on even more credibility when it is compared with the rest of the AL. The closest competitor in team ERA, the Yankees (which is amazing in itself, considering the number of first-line starters the Yankees have put on the disabled list), is two-thirds of a run worse than the A's. And seven of the 14 clubs in the AL have ERA's of over 4.00. Actually, Toronto's is over 5.00. Only Atlanta in the NL has an ERA over 4.00.

SPEAKING OF esoteric baseball stats, the Sporting News recently reported the findings of Washington Post sportswriter Thomas Boswell, who has worked out a system of what he call a "total average" as a solution for those who argue over whether percentage hitters or long-ball hitters' etc., contribute more to a team.

Boswell adds up even, base a hitter makes: one for a single, a walk, a steal and getting hit by a pitch; two for a double; three for a triple; four for a homerun, and then divides the total bases by times at bat, plus steal attempts.

Under Boswell's system, the most effective batters in 1977 were: George Foster (.666); Reggie Smith (.651); Mike Schmidt (.647); Greg Luzinski (.646); Oscar Gamble (.639); Jim Rice (.627); Reggie Jackson (.616); Rod Carew (.616); Mitchell Page (.612); Andre Thornton (.599).

The all-time top 10 are: Babe Ruth (.715); Ted Williams (.710); Rogers Hornsby (.629); Joe Dimaggio (.623); Willie Mays (.617); Stan Musial (.616); Henry Aaron (.608).

A statistical quirk in the above lists. On both lists, there are four left handed hitters and one switch-hitter. Also notice that four of the all-time top 10 are Yankees.

THEY TALK about Tom Lasorda bleeding Dodger Blue. What about Stan Wasiak, who recently broke what is believed to be an all-time record by managing his 2,000th win in the minor leagues, all victories coming over a period of 20 years consecutive years as a Dodger minor league manager.

That isn't all. Before he began managing for them, Wasiak spent 10 years in the Dodger system as a player!

TIME OUT for some baseball trivia. Who wrote "Take Me Out To the Ball Game," and when?

No need keeping you in suspense. It was co-written by Jack Norworth and Albert von Tilzer in 1908.

For those of you who don't believe the old baseball maxim that a game is never over until the last out is made, following perhaps the quitesential example:

It was a San Francisco semi-pro game in 1953 between the San Remo Restaurant team and the Yellow Cab Co. team.

Going into the eighth inning, Yellow Cab had a 12-0 lead. The Yellow Cab manager was so confident of victory that he replaced seven of his regulars, and put himself in right field.

San Remo scored seven runs in that inning, and six in the ninth.

That was the last game the Yellow Cab team ever played.

LOCAL NOTES: Skyline College freshman catcher Tony Bolla, a Crestmoor grad who led the Trojans in hitting (.356) this year, is not only an all-conference selection, but has also been named to the All-California Community College Division II second team.

Terra Nova grads Brett Lowart and Daryl Fazio also had outstanding seasons for skyline. Lowart, an outfielder, was the team's second leading hitter (.348), while first baseman Fazio, hit .328.

Wildcats, Rangers Top Rec Leagues

The SAL Wildcats lead the fifth grade Western Division league in the Daly City Recreation Division's Boys Baseball league.

The Wildcats are riding the winning crest on the arms of pitchers Garrett Zane, John Anoveva, Sean Jantoc and Tom Healy.

Our Lady of Mercy, coached by Jerry Pult, holds on to second place while the PAL Pirates challenge OLM by virtue of their 7-6 win over LBVA and 6-1 victory over OLM. Jim Park, Steve Babbs and Rich Marinos have pitched some excellent games for the Pirates.

The St. Andrews "Scots" remain in their thick of the race behind the excellent pitching of Albert Baccet.

Sports And Recreation

Locals Alive In Tourney

Defending champ Cavalier Motel of South San Francisco is the only local team still alive in the winner's bracket of the Seventh Annual Big Lew Fast Pitch softball tournament in San Mateo after the first weekend of action.

Cavalier won its first two games, beating the Hayward Cougars 9-3 and rugged De Ja Vu of Watsonville 7-3. Cavalier plays the tourney's Cinderella team, Minton Lumber of Sunnyvale, Saturday morning at 9 in one winner's bracket game.

Santini's / Fat Harry's of San Mateo and the host San Mateo Lions each lost one game, but are still in contention in the loser's bracket. The Redwood City King lost their first two games and were eliminated.

Eric Cubic and Rick Hoffman.

Tommy Ohman leads the LBVA "Spoilers" hitting attack as they play the Spoilers role against the top teams in the standing.

In the Eastern Division, the PAL "Rangers" have locked up at least a tie for first place behind the fine pitching of Ricky and Ronnie Meza, Mike Domino, Mike Lynch, Joe Santiago and Matthew Cannon.

The PAL "Padres" remain in second place by virtue of their upset win over the Rangers by a final score of 16-13. Matt McDermott, Chris Bullock, Hank Benedetti and Mark Frogi held the Ranger bats in check in registering their fourth win of the season.

Basketball League Set

Daly City's Recreation Department is sponsoring a high school basketball league open to all high school students who live or go to school in Daly City (except varsity and junior varsity players).

Games are scheduled to begin on June 27.

Deadline for sign-ups is June 16 and cost is $35 per team.

For details contact Joe Anibale at Westlake Community Center, 145 Lake Merced Blvd., Daly City, 94024.

had a season of close decisions and are always in the game. The Sharks edged the Padres 12-11 and then lost to the Rangers 13-12. Jeff Sung, Tito Montenegro and George Vorpahl have had hits throughout the season for the Sharks. R. Miske and M. Byers have led the LBVA team to an even record so far.

D.C. Dolphins Take 40 Ribbons

More than 40 ribbons were earned by the Daly City Dolphins recently at their dual swim meet with the Cabrillo Clippers at Half Moon Bay.

Gigi Bipes took second in the 50 freestyle; Lisa Calais took second in the 50 backstroke, 50 breaststroke, 50 freestyle and a third in the 50 butterfly.

Lorelei Morino earned a second in the 50 backstroke; Tad Brunell took first in the 50 backstroke; Ernie Calais placed third in the 50 butterfly; and John Murry took second in the 50 freestyle and third in the 100 breaststroke.

Gabby Babin placed second in the 50 freestyle and third in the 100 breaststroke; Mike DeMartini took third in both the 50 backstroke and the 50 butterfly; Mike Chamberlin earned a second in the 50 backstroke and a third in the 50 butterfly.

Larry Calais took first in both the 50 freestyle and 100 backstroke, in his age group. Ken Nolan took a first in the 100 breaststroke, a second in the 50 butterfly and a third in the 100 backstroke.

Rich Segol earned a second in the 100 butterfly and a third in the 100 breaststroke. Ariel Austria took second in the 100 breaststroke, and both third in the 100 backstroke and the 50 freestyle.

Valerie Sakurai took second in the 100 breaststroke and third in both the 50 freestyle and 100 backstroke. Marie Bostick placed first in the 50 backstroke, the 50 breaststroke and the 50 freestyle.

Matthew Foge placed first in the 25 yard freestyle, the 25 yard breaststroke, the 25 butterfly and took second in the 25-yard backstroke in the 8 and under boys category.

Corina Rhoades took a second in the 50 butterfly and a third in the 50 backstroke.

The Lamsam sisters took a second in the 100 breaststroke by Ruth, a third in the 50 freestyle by Esther and Grace placed third in the 100 yard breaststroke and took first in the 50 yard breaststroke.

In the Rinconada Master swim last month, Matthew Foge, age 7, placed third in the 25 yard breaststroke and took first in the 50 yard breaststroke.

Dolphins To Compete

Daly City Dolphins 12 and younger in the "B" division of the AAU will compete June 10-11 in the Redwood City Master meet.

Tryouts for the local team are held daily at 4:30 p.m. at the Westmoor Pool, according to head coach Chip Zimmerman. Qualification is made by swimming two lengths of the pool, using any stroke.

June birthdays for team members will be celebrated by Tamie Stuckert and Lorelei Morino.

Good morning, good cooks. Nutritionists and wise vegetarians know something great happens when they combine certain kinds of vegetable proteins, like beans and rice, in the same recipe. Besides a complement of flavors, the protein value of the dish gets a big boost. Add a little cheese (or any animal protein) and the protein content actually becomes more than the sum of its parts. This is known as protein complementation.

This recipe for red beans and rice is a good example of this important nutrition principle. The recipe is scaled to make 3, 6 to 12 side dish servings, but by simply doubling the portion size you can serve it as a hearty meatless main dish. Made with packaged enriched pre-cooked rice, red beans and rice is an almost instant skillet dish you can add to your supply of quick dinner skills. And whether you serve it as a side dish with burgers or as a main dish, add a crisp green salad, fresh fruit and a glass of skim milk for a week-night supper that's not just scrumptious, but sensible, too.

RED BEANS AND RICE
Ingredients	3 servings	6 servings	12 servings
Red kidney beans	1 can (16 oz.)	1 can (16 oz.)	2 cans (16 oz. ea.)
Tomato juice and bean liquid	1 cup	2 cups	4 cups
Chopped onion	1/4 cup	1/2 cup	1 cup
Butter or margarine	1 tbsp.	2 tbsp.	4 tbsp.
Salt	1/4 tsp.	1/2 tsp.	1 tsp.
Pepper	Dash	1/4 tsp.	1/2 tsp.
Packaged enriched pre-cooked rice	1/4 cup	1/2 cup	1 cup
Grated cheddar cheese	1/4 cup	1/2 cup	1 cup
YIELD	2 1/4 cups	4 cups	8 cups

Drain beans, measuring liquid; add tomato juice to make required amount of liquid. Saute onion in butter in saucepan until tender. Add salt, pepper and measured liquid; bring to boil. Stir in rice. Cover; remove from heat and let stand 5 minutes. Stir in the beans and heat thoroughly over low heat. Sprinkle with grated cheese. Per side dish serving: about 250 calories; 10 grams protein; 36 grams carbohydrate; 7 grams fat. Per main dish serving: about 500 calories; 20 grams protein; 72 grams carbohydrate; 14 grams fat.

Council Rejects Units

In a surprising move, a divided City Council voted against a subdivision map for a proposed 115-unit condominium project between Interstate 200 and Serravista Avenue in Daly City.

The condominium project, studied for months by the Planning Commission, had received commission approval a month ago.

The future of the project remains unclear, according to city officials, because an ordinance for a zone change to a new planned development designation was introduced and an environmental impact report was approved.

The zone-change ordinance is expected to come up for further action by the council June 12.

The vote against the subdivision map late last week was 3-2, with Mayor William Schumacher and Councilmen James Tucker and Albert Teglia casting the majority.

The project, developed by SKM Properties of Colma, had been the focus of considerable opposition by Serramonte residents, but only a handful showed up at the council meeting Thursday.

Roseann Emerson, a member of the Serramonte Homeowners Association, said people were upset about the development.

"I knocked on 50 doors regarding the project and I kept hearing the same thing from people," Mrs. Emerson said. "Just wait until June 6 and we will give the council an answer to the proposed development."

One other resident, Maurice Salaversa, also expressed opposition to the project.

Schumacher and Teglia voiced doubts that condominiums are the best type of housing units for the area.

"There should be more prestigious dwellings on that site," Teglia said. "With that view of the valley and the airport, I'm sure buyers could be found for some executive-type homes."

The developer originally had asked for 150 townhouse-for-sale units at the sloping site, but the staff and Planning Commission had reduced that to 115 units.

Assigned To Eglin

Airman J. S. Hayward Jr., son of Mrs. Kathleen Hayward of 41 Shakespeare St., Daly City, has been assigned to Eglin AFB, Fla., for duty in the U.S. Air Force civil engineering structural and pavements field.

The airman, who recently completed basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex., studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations.

Pvt. Heath In Germany

Pvt. Kevin W. Heath, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Heath, 55 Castillejo Drive, Daly City, recently completed the Headstart program at Augsburg, Germany.

Headstart is an orientation program designed to acquaint new arrivals with the German culture. Training is given in fundamentals of the German language, German customs, geography and history.

Heath, a supply clerk with the 30th Field Artillery, Germany, entered the Army in November 1977.

Proposition 13

No Sweat for Colma

Colma was the only city in San Mateo County which wasn't sweating out yesterday's Jarvis-Gann property tax initiative results.

Colma, the tiny town of 500, has no property taxes, so the city didn't have anything to lose. The charter city gets sizable revenues in sales taxes from its commercial area, primarily along Serramonte Boulevard.

But Colma residents still pay property taxes to the county, several school districts and fire district, to name some of the taxing agencies that provide service to the residents.

So, along with everyone else, Colma residents had been debating the merits of Propositions 13 and 8, according to City Clerk Frances Liston.

Mrs. Liston said the only effects foreseen for city functions are possible changes in services provided to the city by the county. The city occasionally purchases technical services, she said.

If the state acts to change sales tax formulas, that also would be a possible outgrowth of the initiative, she said.

Future of Period Hanging Fire

For the past 15 years, South San Francisco High School students have utilized an early-morning activity period for club meetings and the like.

However, that program now appears to be in jeopardy.

Jim Serrata, student body president, and Barbara Olds, student government advisor, met with members of the press recently to express their concerns that the activity period would abruptly end next fall.

However, Robert Kelly, superintendent of the South San Francisco Unified School District, has assured students and Ms. Olds that "no final decision has been made."

Kelly said that the final decision will be up to school principal George Hurley and a school committee appointed to look into the value of the activity period.

The activity period is held each morning from 8:05 to 8:25, with regular classes following. However, many of the student body's 31 clubs choose to meet from 7:45 to 8:20 different mornings of the week to plan activities and discuss club businesses.

Both Serrata and Ms. Olds say they believe the entire club and activities structure at the school could collapse if the activity period is eliminated.

The period also is used for students to make up tests and to serve detention periods normally completed after school hours.

"Many of our students are involved in athletics and drama and other activities after school," said

Serrata. If the program is cancelled, "it will really hurt us," he said. "It's hard enough to get students involved now. Many are not willing to stay after school (for club activities). Our activity program now gives all students an opportunity to meet before school."

"The administration contends that only 10 percent of the students use the activity period," said Ms. Olds. "Maybe that's true — on one particular day. But it's a different 10 percent each day."

Ms. Olds and Serrata are members of the committee established to review the activity program. Although named in February, it did not have its first meeting until late last month.

"We surveyed the teachers and 90 percent said 'let's keep it,'" Ms. Olds said. "I don't know why the administration won't consider the wishes of the teachers," Serrata added.

Serrata said that he is sure at least one club, the Future Business Leaders of America, about 120 strong, would be cancelled if activity period ends.

Added Serrata: "Activities are a part of education too."

Holding a similar activity period during lunch time won't work, Ms. Olds claims. Many students, and especially seniors, go to school on abbreviated schedules and simply aren't around during lunch, she said.

ELECTED

James Basin, member of a South San Francisco law firm, was elected president of the North County Bar Association this week. He is a resident of Belmont and a native of San Mateo.

Justweds Reside In S.S.F.

South San Francisco is the first address for Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. Whitlow (Cynthia P. Larson) who were married at the First Presbyterian Church in Burlingame before the Rev. Charles Washburn.

The newlyweds were honored after the 4 p.m. rites at a reception at the Mainliner Club in San Mateo. They honeymooned in southern California and Reno.

Cynthia is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Larson of Millbrae. When she walked to the altar with her father, she was dressed in a white silk and lace gown with a matching train. The costume was also accented with lace.

Terry Yetter of Millbrae, the maid of honor, wore a lime green pleated gown with spaghetti straps and a shoulder length chiffon cape. Similar outfits were chosen by bridesmaids Dorine Anderson of Reno, the bride's sister, and Martha Whitlow of San Francisco, the bridegroom's sister.

Sonja Whitlow of Pacifica was the flower girl for her uncle's wedding. She wore a white and lime green chiffon frock. Jimmy Anderson of Reno, the bride's nephew, carried the rings.

Brian Gibbs of Oroville was the best man for the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Whitlow of San Francisco. Bruce Whitlow of Union City, Donald's brother, shared ushering duties with Bill Arbic of San Bruno. Among the guests were the bride's uncle, Lewis Elkins of Balsam Lake, Wis.; her cousins, John Elkins of St. Paul, Minn., and Andy Wethern of Siren, Wis.; and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Schultz of Denver.

The bride, who works in San Francisco, studied at Mills High School, Cabrillo College and Skyline College. She also is the sister of Connie Morgan of Palo Alto and Daren Larson of Oregon. Her husband attended Balboa High School, San Jose State and Heald's Engineering College in San Francisco. He has another sister, Norma Whitlow, and another brother, Mark Whitlow.

ENVIRONMENTAL PROGRAM

Forty students from the Community Environmental Education Program at Jefferson and Serramonte high schools in Daly City participated in five days of service projects. The projects ranged from learning search-and-rescue techniques; building a spillway with the Department of Fish and Wildlife, restoring an old house on Fort Hunter Liggett Military Reservation, wedding and general upkeep at the Mission San Antonio and clearing trails in Los Padres National Forest. The United States Army provided transportation, food and a campsite. The goal was to serve and to experience the daily work of various fields which fulfill the purpose of the experiential learning program.

'Best' Bus Riders Air Their Concerns

Daly City residents last week requested that San Mateo County Transit District officials discontinue bus service on two Serramonte streets and start serving the Southern Hills area of the city.

The two requests were the focal point of a public meeting held by SamTrans staffers and Board of Directors member Helen Staub to get some feedback on Daly City service.

About 20 residents showed up for the meeting, the first of its kind in the city since SamTrans began serving Daly City in January, 1977.

"Daly City is our leading market," James Gallagher, the district director of marketing and communications, told the audience. "The ridership here is better than in any other municipality. It's been fantastic."

Gallagher said that since inception of the Daly City service, ridership "quickly supplanted" that in San Mateo and "has carried a lot of weaker areas."

"We're not here because we think there is a single difficulty, but to review problems that we might not have foreseen," Gallagher said.

Some residents acted quickly to take him up on the suggestion.

Ed Villacorta, 375 Shipley Ave., presented the SamTrans officials with a petition bearing the names of 72 residents of Shipley Avenue and Margate Street.

He said the 32-foot streets are too narrow and sloping for safe bus service and that "the noise level is disruptive to the residents."

He asked that SamTrans find a wider Street, such as Callan Boulevard or King Drive, to use rather than the two residential streets currently being traveled by Route 29W.

A. R. Cianfichi, SamTrans director of planning and research, said he noticed that in the petition there were photographs of "a lot of people standing on bus stops. What happened to them?"

Cianfichi added, however, that the route would be re-evaluated.

"If you don't want the service and if the city thinks it is hazardous, we'll take it off," he said.

Cianfichi's comments sparked a note of criticism from Serramonte resident Roseann Emerson, who had said that the route was dangerous because buses often crossed the center line on a blind hill.

"I don't like your attitude," she told Cianfichi. "You act like you're doing us a favor."

The SamTrans officials also promised to study a request by several residents in the Southern Hills area to initiate bus service there.

However, Cianfichi said the area, a steep slope area in eastern Daly City, is difficult to serve. He said the streets are so narrow and winding that it is difficult to turn full-sized buses.

Resident Ernie Pezzola suggested that SamTrans use mini-buses for the area.

Cianfichi answered the district is attempting to phase out its mini-buses because of "undependability." He suggested that the area might be able to get non-rush hour service.

Another resident, Frank Loretta, vice-president of the Hillside Homeowners Improvement Association, told SamTrans officials that residents in the Hillside area do not have a direct route to Serramonte Shopping Center.

"It takes them 1½ hours to get there," he said.

The officials promised to study the three matters. SamTrans also won a few plaudits from residents who said they are pleased with the service.

Celia Greeson, a representative of three senior citizens clubs in the city, said the seniors are thankful that SamTrans has initiated a lower rate program for the elderly.

Several other residents said they have worked closely with district officials in planning the city service.

Schools for Lease Remain That Way

Expected bids for the lease of two of its soon-to-be-vacated schools didn't materialize, so the Jefferson Elementary School District Board of Trustees Wednesday night decided to re-advertise and perhaps sweeten the pot for prospective tenants.

There are interested parties out there — the board got one bid by deadline and two others too late, which thus, weren't opened.

The one bid was from the San Francisco Christian Schools, for four classrooms at Abraham Lincoln School at a price of 12 cents per square foot per month rental, with the school to provide its own custodial, maintenance and security services.

Dr. John Trompeter, assistant superintendent for administrative services, told the board that Christian Schools also had asked for a long-term lease or lease-purchase arrangement, but that he had rejected that because the board had offered only leases.

During the two hours of discussion, considerable board sentiment developed for simply selling old Crocker School, which Board President Dorothy D. Adams said "is at the end of its life as a school."

The board voted to get an estimate of the cost of an appraisal for fair market value of Crocker, and then set June 21 for receiving new bids on the leasing of Lincoln and the sale or lease of Crocker.

The district is asking 14 cents per square foot per month rental and nine cents a foot in fixed custodial, maintenance and security costs. Trompeter suggested the district "could be flexible in the total rental," but the nine-cent fixed cost would be firm.

Trustee David Parker observed that the 23-cent asking price "is a very minimal cost in Daly City," since privately-owned property leases for considerably more.

At Trustee Beverly K. Forrester's suggestion, the staff also is to look into how much money the district could keep from the sale of Crocker. By law the money would go to the state, which legally owns the property.

There also was talk of possibly selling Lincoln, a small 12-room school now considered possibly too small for that purpose but still modern enough to use if needed.

Demographers have said that because of the increasing birthrate, school enrollments should begin climbing again in 1983, Mrs. Adams noted.

The board referred an inquiry from Terry Geizich, director of the county Office of Education Headstart program, to the City of Daly City about using a portable classroom being moved this summer from George Washington School to Lincoln Park.

'Blue Curb' Ordinance to Help DC Handicapped

Handicapped people in the Daly City area should have an easier time getting around as of Thursday.

That's when a Daly City blue curb ordinance goes into effect, according to the city's administrative assistant, Ed Lyons.

Lyons said the city's traffic committee currently is reviewing locations for designating handicapped parking and should have some recommendations this week.

If the City Council approves the recommendations, parking spaces closest to city and other strategic buildings and shopping areas will be painted blue, Lyons said.

The blue curb, which also may include yellow markings by the Police Department, will prohibit anyone except handicapped persons from parking at that spot. Vehicles which do not display a handicap license plate or placard from the Department of Motor Vehicles will be subject to $5 to $50 citations from police.

Lyons said the placard, which is displayed on the dashboard, or the special license plate are required for the handicapped privileges.

The placards and license plates can be sold by the DMV to:

- Persons who have lost, or lost the use of, one or more limbs.

- Persons who have lost, or lost the use of, both hands.

- Persons who are unable to move about without the aid of a mechanical device.

- Persons who suffer from lung diseases, as verified by a physician.

Another law, which becomes effective July 1, will allow persons "with certain types of heart conditions" to obtain the special license or placard.

Lyons said the city will review requests for blue curb zones, such as for placing in front of a handicapped person's residence.

The handicapped also will get a boost from construction at the Daly City Civic Center which will aid residents with disabilities.

About $280,000 in federal Economic Development Act funds is being used to construct a parking lot and handicapped ramp that are level with one entrance at City Hall.

The expenditure also will provide for an elevator, modification to rest rooms and an intercom system to aid handicapped persons.

The $113,066 elevator, now being installed, has been requested for years by residents who complained of steep second-floor stairs.

Secretaries In LSSD Frustrated

Clerical needs, a proposal for making two school sites more marketable and the method of determining a discipline code were three knotty problems unresolved by Laguna Salada Union School District trustees Thursday.

Several school secretaries waited until midnight to express their frustration with the formula that the district uses to determine how much clerical help each school receives.

A Fairmont School secretary urged board members to give more clerical help to kindergarten-through-eighth grade schools than to kindergarten-through-sixth grade schools.

A Pedro Valley School secretary pointed out that some schools are responsible for administering more special programs than others.

Others noted that an adult is needed in the office at all times and particularly during the lunch hour, when children seem to have more problems and accidents.

Using the current method of basing clerical help on the enrollment at each school, the board previously had announced plans to cut clerical help at some campuses.

After hearing the secretaries complain, the trustees voted unanimously to have the district staff look into the problem and come up with a new method of allocating clerical help.

Board members were noticeably cool toward a suggestion by Carl Kirker of RMA Group that they invest $110,000 into two unused school sites in the Fairmont and Edgemark districts so that they will be easier to sell.

Trustees Marilyn Wills and John Plato chastised Kirker for previously telling them that the district could earn $50,000 from the sale of dirt that would be removed when the land was graded.

Kirker explained that there was a bigger market for dirt a year ago, when he made that suggestion. He added that the district would have to pay about $500,000 to have someone haul all the dirt away, making his $110,000 request seem like a bargain.

Trustee Grady Hesters expressed frustration with convoluted rules that require zoning and accessibility reports that probably will be of no use to the district.

The board postponed action on Kirker's recommendation until Superintendent James Brien can discuss the plan with him in detail.

Trustees also found it impossible to agree on the make-up of a committee that would propose a district wide discipline policy. They had determined that such a policy is needed at a prior meeting.

Plato and Trustee Curtiss Landers advocated having the district staff draw up the policy, then allowing the public to critique it. Hesters and Mrs. Wills wanted to include citizens on the planning committee.

However, it was the consensus of the board that Mrs. Wills' motion to form such a committee was too vague.

Since the subject is scheduled to be discussed at a study session this weekend, the board tabled the matter.

Stamps for VA Patients Use Sought

Samuel Chandler

The American Red Cross has issued a call for foreign postage stamps, stamp albums (new or used) and other stamp-collecting supplies for distribution to veterans' hospitals.

Each month the Red Cross sends about 7,600 stamps to VA hospital patients throughout the nation. The hobby is highly favored as an excellent form of therapy by physicians and therapists.

Stamps still attached to envelopes are acceptable because all stamps are cleaned and segregated before packaging.

Supplies and stamps may be sent or delivered to the Sequoia Red Cross Service Center, 3540 Middlefield Road, Menlo Park, care of Mrs. H. W. Imperiale.

HIS OPINION

"All authority belongs to the people." — Thomas Jefferson.

There is a bit of news that has little connection with taxes or crime or even the rights of women and minorities. "American Girl," the colorful journal of cheesecake and hairdos published by the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A., set out to find the "All-American Girl."

For three months the editors and representatives of the Noxema Skin Co. sorted through hundreds of pictures of girls who were beautiful and accomplished. "Do you paint?" they asked. "Are you a composer? A performing artist? Has your community service project been a smashing success?"

FIVE finalists were chosen and flown to New York where they could be observed by such worthy judges as actress Celeste Holm, editor Joan Sullivan, community leader Alexandra Schlesinger, newswoman Melba Tolliver and Gloria Scott, president of the Girl Scouts.

This August panel chose beautiful Cecilia White to be the All-American Girl of 1978, an expert harpist, she has performed in her native Denver, in Arizona, and as guest soloist with the Colorado Philharmonic Orchestra. She is also an accomplished dancer, with ballet being her favorite. To add to her laurels, she was the first black Miss Colorado Teenager.

The other finalists include Cheryl Feidt, a painter from Hastings, Minn.; Ritsu Kalsumata, a violinist who has been a guest artist with the Philadelphia Orchestra; Becky Jane Schroeder, a scientist and inventor from Toledo, Ohio; and Sally Nuckles, a community oriented girl from Myrtle Beach, S. Car.

IT IS interesting to note that one of the five finalists is Oriental, one black; while three are from white middle-class homes. Each of them is a good student; each has a wide range of interests, from community work to fine art; and each has a long string of accomplishments. While not one of them can be called a rebel, each works to improve her school and her town.

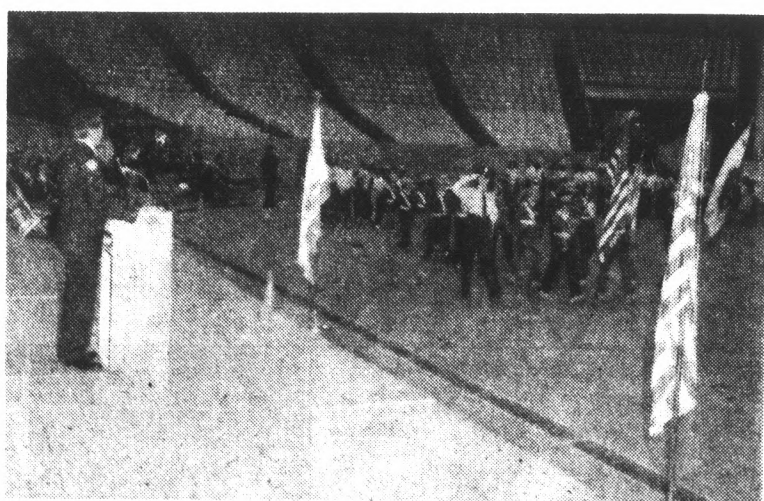

As representatives of youth, these girls personify a truth. Many of America's young people are deeply involved and concerned with the caliber of life in their country, but they are not wild-eyed fanatics. They do not try to disrupt school and governmental units.

As Dr. Mark Evans wrote in his book "Will the Real Young American Please Stand Up," so it is with many of the nation's young people. "Some young Americans are tired of being dismissed as irrelevant, conservative, old-fashioned and out-of-date. . . . They are tired of a sub-culture that cannot survive without depending on drugs or stimulants.

"THEY ARE tired of rock musicians, poets, artists and writers who are so totally lacking in even a single shred of ability that they compelled Ernest Hemingway to call this 'the Millennium of the Untalented.'"

"They are tired of seeing dirty, filthy, unwashed slobbers being glorified as heroes. They are tired of a culture whose vocabulary demands vulgarity, coarseness and obscenity. They are no longer able to tolerate the demise of taste or the apotheosis of sloppiness."

"They seek a return to morals, values, and a meaningful culture in the most sophisticated sense."

PASSING IN REVIEW

Members of the Daly City School Safety Patrol pass in review for a Daly City police officer and other assembled dignitaries recently during ceremonies at the Cow Palace. Each group represented was presented with an award of merit. The youngsters later were treated to refreshments.

Important Note Regarding Prices.

The prices shown in the right-hand column on each page of this catalog are for reference only, and no representation is made to the effect that any of these prices is the usual or ordinary price at which a particular item is sold.

Most of the prices shown in the right-hand column are manufacturers' suggested retail prices supplied to Consumers Distributing. Where manufacturers do not supply suggested retail prices, Consumers Distributing has applied to its cost mark-up percentages based on trade customs (which commonly vary with respect to various types of items) to arrive at a price which it considers to be in accordance with customary trade practices. In any event, these prices may vary in different trading areas depending on shipping and other costs and circumstances which might affect such a price. No representation is made to the effect that any of these prices is the usual or ordinary price at which a particular item is sold.

No user of this catalog should assume that a savings will be effected or realized in an amount equal to the difference between the figure in the right-hand column and the Consumers Distributing price in some cases, other retailers may be selling goods at prices equal to or less than Consumers Distributing price for the purpose of clearing goods which are end-of-line or stale merchandise, or by reason of their ordinary business practices.

*All prices are subject to change without notice due to manufacturers' increases or decreases, changes in federal or state taxation or world fluctuation of the prices of gold, gems and precious metals.

*We're only human so the occasional error may slip through. We are not responsible for typographical and transcriptional errors.
